Mike.

Just to be sure, on my end, I put the 590h on your 11709.2, about 08:00u. No time sync., I am getting a station here. Way down, can't really pull anything out of it, but oddball bits of music, kind of like a child's music box.??
So, sorry, no help here. I'll check a few of my ult books later today and see if any info on this. You could ask on one of the ult groups on yahoo, if your a member. Let me know if you come up with anything on this, I love a good transmitter/ station hunt.

KGO-AM seems to have laid off full time talkers Gene Burns, John Rathman and Ray Taliafero. Apparently they had no listeners not eligible for Social Security. The station is expanding its news hours.

"Losing the American Dream"

December 2011 - "He and his wife were living in their Crofton home with their three children. Knepp earned enough at his job as retail marketing director for HD Radio for his wife to be a stay-at-home mom. The couple lived comfortably. In August 2009, Knepp was laid off in a round of company cutbacks."

http://www.hometownannapolis.com/news/top/2011/12/04-26/Getting-By-Losing-the-American-Dream.html?ne=1

"Heads Roll at iBiquity, Clear Channel"

January 2009 - "This past week iBiquity, HD Radio's proprietor, laid off 20 people. According to Radio World, these are the first bona-fide layoffs at the company since its founding in 2003. iBiquity's web site claims the company employs some 130 people; if that number is accurate, that would constitute a corporate workforce cut of an impressive 15%."

http://www.diymedia.net/archive/0109.htm#012509

"Hallway iBiquity Digital"

"iBiquity = Titanic
That place had around 5 or 6 "Business Actions" in 2010. Every day you wondered if you were going to get a call from the dragon lady (AKA Cankles) in HR to tell you that your time is up and how much "they hate to do this". Personally, I'm glad to have gotten laid-off from that sinking ship. I dreaded going in there on Monday, and it would only be Saturday morning! They have been wanting to get their IPO for the last 5 years and with the way things are going, it is never going to happen. Investors are no longer shelling out money to make HD Radio work. It has exsisted for over 10 years and 90% of the population STILL has no idea what it is, or the benefits of having an HD Radio. Another thing... I watched people who founded the company, and who were there from the start get laid off, and basically had the rug pulled out from under them. If anyone was ever stabbed in the back, it was these guys. I am a guy, but guess I didn't fit into their "Ole Boys Network". Please save yourself and stay clear of this company. They will tell you how great you are, drop you when you've worked your rear end off for them and then send you home with what their definition of a severance package is. The severance was laughable, just like those jokers in "upper management".
By Someone - as Ex-Employee

I must explain..a single "Business Action" would include 10+ people at a time, when they only have around 80 people still working there. They have a bare bones engineering department, and the way things are going, those are the last people that should be getting the axe.

http://www.hallway.com/companies/ibiquity-digital-corporation-reviews iNiquity had a big layoff in January 2009 and this occurred in August 2009. They had more in 2010, that went unreported. It is obvious that iNiquity has bombed with the retailers, and had more layoffs than reported!

Exactly! If you want to go mobile internet online audio of AM/FM stations, etc. ... just use your android phone.

If you want louder audio, or audio thought the car radio, use a fm xmitter to take the audio to the radio ...

When I was commissioned, I swore to defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign or domestic. Apparently the U.S. Senate doesn't have the same requirement.

NUGENT: It is us
We're the ones who allowed anti-Americans to take over America

Barack Hussein Obama did not sneak into power. An army of clueless, disconnected, ignorant Americans invited him to bring his Marxist, glaringly anti-American jihad into our lives.

It is the Ceaseless Quest for the Unearned, propelled by Shameless Retail Politicians who have sold the world a bill-of-goods that somehow the Deperate and Deliberately Evil are simply poorly understood and need better etiquette opportutities and social interactivity lessons.

As wave after wave of terror appear over the horizon as did so many Luftwaffe during the Battle of Britain, LIBs continue to not only deny their point of origin, and their intent, but-also demand that we prosecute each pilot as an individual even as they urge them on to their targets, even as they discover Cell-phone-wrapped-Pepto Bismol bottles in their luggage -- it's obvious, that they consider YOU to be MORE of a threat with you 3oz toothpaste and toothbrush.

LIBs. What PRICE their VISION?

LIBs know that America will NOT be destroyed by its Enemies, but RATHER by those who's job it was to protect it.

Being Obama

What makes President Obama's executive passivity so interesting is that it seems to be a symptom not of policy uncertainty, but of personal narcissism. The president is free to delegate the tasks of the president because he's already done the important job of simply showing up.

The real Obama is a man shaped by experiences far different from those of most Americans; he is a much stranger, more determined, and exponentially more dangerous man than you'd ever imagined.

How Did Ayn Rand's 'Atlas Shrugged' Predict an America Spinning Out of Control?

How could she have painted villains who seem ripped from today's headlines?

There's Wesley Mouch, who in the face of failed government programs screams like Rep. Barney Frank (D) of Massachusetts for wider powers.

There's Eugene Lawson, "the banker with a heart," who like former Treasury Secretary Henry Paulson and Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke is ever ready with a bailout.

There's Mr. Thompson, who like President Obama seeks to rally the country behind pious platitudes.

There's Orren Boyle, who like President Bush says that we must abandon free-market principles to save the free market. ...
Was the solution to "go Galt" and quit society? No, Rand again answered. The solution was simultaneously much easier and much harder. "So long as we have not yet reached the state of censorship of ideas,"...

DESERVE PEACE.
DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEMAND COMPETANCE.

DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY. IMPEACH OBAMA.

IT REALLY IS AS SIMPLE AS THAT.

Seventy years ago today the Jew state of Israel deliberately and with malice of forethought viciously attacked the U.S.S. Liberty in Pearl Harbor killing 34 American sailors and wounding another 134. Repeatedly straffing and bombing the defenseless American servicemen in an act of premeditated murder and bloodlust.

A day that will "live in infamy" as President Andrew Johnson stated in a speech before the Supreme Court of the United States asking for a declaration of war against Russia. And the rest is history.

And isn't it interesting that American taxpayers are forced to pay BILLIONS of $$$ to the Jew state of Israel every single year while corrupt politicians cut elderly Americans social security and medicare. How sick this nation has become.

It makes sense to me, these are the people who have been made homeless by exporting their jobs to china, by forsaking Americans to employ foreigners.

Instead of bailouts to the banks, this is what should have been done, taking care of Americans and seeing to their needs first.

It is obvious, government is doing nothing but hurting Americans, impoverishing Americans, making homeless Americans, making criminals of Americans, imprisoning Americans, etc. It is time to band together as Americans under our Constitution and take care of one another, it is time to show we are loyal to our fellow Americans, that we stand behind our fellow Americans, that we will NOT stand for the abuse of our fellow Americans ... it is time to stand up and enjoy our creator given rights and this great nation we all own ...

It is time to build the hangmans platform and feed it the evil criminals who are breaking our Constitution and enslaving Americans ...

Obama has enough to worry about, other than georges vomit ... first, he needs to come up with a birth certificate which is valid and not a revolution inevitable. -- John F. Kennedy, In a speech at the White House, 1962 -- 35th president of US 1961-1963 (1917 - 1963)

Great men have the power to speak from beyond their own grave ... and know no limits like the rodents in our public servant offices, these days.

Perhaps georgie-boy was thinking of the quote, by JFK, when he envisioned his own death at the hands of patriotic Americans who came to get their country back from the criminal rodents inhabiting the public servant offices ... who knows?

As I remember, this all happened during the great depression. However, that was a kinder/gentler time, the perverts didn't openly parade in public, nor molest the children in colleges, churches, schools, state foster homes, etc.

It was also another time where poverty, lack of jobs, hunger, etc. forced those will nothing to lose to jails and prisons -- there, they will at least get 3 hots and cot -- some may have reached the point where that is not looking so bad.

This time we live in is monumental. It is the type of time in history where true American Heroes are born, where men stand up -- head and shoulders taller than those around them, and embrace the crimes, the criminals, the rodents who seek refuge in public service offices and begin to set us back on a Constitutional course.

Those who have been praying to be alive in interesting and history defining times have had their prayers answered, these times are upon us!

The brave, the righteous, the strong, those of good spirit and intent rejoice! We may not repay our debt to our forefathers and restore Constitutional law and order, back, to the land ...

"God forbid we should ever be twenty years without such a rebellion. The people cannot be all, and always, well informed. The part which is wrong will be discontented, in proportion to the importance of the facts

they misconceive. If they remain quiet under such misconceptions, it is lethargy, the forerunner of death to the public liberty. ...
And what country can preserve its liberties, if its rulers are not warned from time to time, that this people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms. The remedy is to set them right as to the facts, pardon and pacify them. What signify a few lives lost in a century or two? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time, with the blood of patriots and tyrants.
It is its natural manure." -- Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826), US Founding Father, drafted the Declaration of Independence, 3rd US President -- November 13, 1787, letter to William
S. Smith, quoted in Padover's Jefferson On Democracy, ed., 1939

You make an important comparison, the words of truly great man, compared to the likes of human swine such as clinton.

The powers-that-be, tossing clintons arse in prison, would be a sign that they are going to come to their sense -- in time to save their arses ...

In all seriousness, this is a key observation, it is precisely how Evil works, by pitting Man against other men until we exist no more, as if one person's success neccesarily comes at the expense of another, nothing can be further from the Truth and when the Truth becomes a Liability ALL PEOPLE become the Enemy.

A Free and Productive people have NOTHING to gain from WAR, and, in fact, a great deal to lose.

If you see something, say something, yeah right!
Resistance is NOT FUTILE because Impedance is Real.

WE ARE ALL TARGETS NOW.

Since raygun, each preceding president has just carried out his orders from the puppet masters, the slimy newt, obama, romney, etc., etc. ... just more of the same criminals who would just carry out the orders of the puppet masters.

It is simply RON PAUL or you might just as well stick any criminal in that the NWO has in its' pocket ...

Hmmm, don't get it yet?

biden would simply have no effect ... same orders from the same puppet masters would still be being followed ... RON PAUL in 2012 ... there isn't a second choice ...

We've been getting gale force winds, here in Chicago, the last couple of seasons. Not exactly a typhoon, but tapping on 80kts on a good day.

I suspended my random wires from multiple points, so the maximum length of unsupported wire was less than 3m.

Haven't had to put one back up since.

10 of The Craziest Things Newt Gingrich Has Ever Said
Rania
Khalek, AlterNet
December 8,
2011

Republican presidential candidate Newt Gingrich is the latest not-Romney to capture the attention of GOP primary voters. With a solid lead in three early primary states, he's giving the erstwhile front-runner a serious run for his money. While Newt may be the flavor of the moment, the Iowa caucuses are just three weeks away, so while he's behind in fund-raising and has had trouble organizing a nationwide campaign, it's impossible to count him out.

In light of his resurgence, let's take a trip down memory lane and examine some of the most absurd statements Gingrich has made over the years. Rehashing every outrageous comment by Gingrich would be a lengthy endeavor, so this is not a comprehensive list.

1. No free speech for you!

In 2006, at an awards dinner honoring the preservation of free speech no less, Gingrich unleashed the scary specter of terrorism to argue that free speech must be curtailed, which he admitted would ignite "a serious debate about the First Amendment."

Gingrich said:

Either before we lose a city or, if we are truly stupid, after we lose a city, we will adopt rules of engagement that use every technology we can find to break up their capacity to use the Internet, to break up their capacity to use free speech, and to go after people who want to kill us to stop them from recruiting people before they get to reach out and convince young people to destroy their lives while destroying us.

His remarks immediately sparked controversy, leading him to write an op-ed days later in which he clarified that the First Amendment should not be used as a shield for terrorists working "to build 'franchises' among leftist, antiglobalization groups worldwide, especially in Latin America."☐

2. Muslims don't count

Remember last year when the right freaked out over Park 51, the planned Muslim Community Center in lower Manhattan? Because of its location, two blocks from the World Trade Center site, the right renamed the proposed interfaith, Muslim-run community center the "ground zero mosque."

Some of the most appalling right-wing statements against Park 51 came from none other than Newt Gingrich, who made one bigoted comment after the next. First, he demanded that America adopt the same religious intolerance that marks the repressive monarchy of Saudi Arabia: "There should be no mosque near Ground Zero in New York so long as there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia," he said.

He then proceeded to equate American Muslims not just to terrorists, but Nazis, arguing that building a mosque near Ground Zero "would be like putting a Nazi sign next to the Holocaust Museum."☐

3. Yay for child labor!

Newt Gingrich longs for an era when children as young as five could slave away for 14 hours a day in a sweatshop. At least that's the impression he gave when declaring to a crowd at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government that child labor laws should go.

"It is tragic what we do in the poorest neighborhoods, entrapping children in, first of all, child [labor] laws, which are truly stupid,"☐ said Gingrich, adding, "Most of these schools ought to get rid of the unionized janitors, have one master janitor, and pay local students to take care of the school."☐

Weeks later Gingrich doubled down:

Really poor children in really poor neighborhoods have no habits of working and have nobody around them who works, so they literally have no habit of showing up on Monday.

They have no habit of staying all day. They have no habit of "I do this and you give me cash" unless it's illegal.

But not to worry, even Gingrich has his limits. When speaking to WNYM radio host Curtis Sliwa, he clarified, "Kids shouldn't work in coal mines; kids shouldn't work in heavy industry,"☐ but he still supports having poor school kids scrub toilets in public schools.

4. Blame the gays

In October, during a campaign stop in Iowa, Gingrich called gay marriage a "temporary aberration" that "fundamentally goes against everything we know." He reminded his audience that "marriage is between a man and woman"☐ and "has been for all of recorded history."☐

This coming from a past adulterer who has been married three times. It's not the number of marriages or even the affair that makes this statement outrageous, but rather the hypocrisy. In his personal life, he has no problem disrespecting the so-called "institution of marriage,"☐ yet when it comes to giving same-sex couples the right to marry, Gingrich is suddenly raging with concern about the sanctity of marriage and commitment.

And, as someone who constantly reminds his audiences that he's a historian, it's odd that Gingrich doesn't know that polygamy has been the most common domestic arrangement in human history.

Gingrich's disdain for LGBT marriage equality was on display one month earlier during an interview with Catholic radio, where he cast blame on same-sex marriage for the country's economic woes.

5. Life as a white man is so unfair

Gingrich, like most conservatives, loves to play the victim card, like the time he called then Supreme Court Judge nominee Sonya Sotomayor a "reverse racist." This was in response to a statement made by Sotomayor during a 2001 lecture at the University of California, Berkeley, School of Law, where she said, "I would hope that a wise Latina woman with the richness of her experiences would more often than not reach a better conclusion than a white male who hasn't lived that life."☐

However, Gingrich and his fellow conservatives conveniently ignored the broader context of Sotomayor's speech. She was making reference to former Justice Sandra Day O'Connor's famous saying: "A wise old man and wise old woman will reach the same conclusion in deciding cases."☐ Sotomayor went on to say that she hoped her gender and race would give her unique insight into cases that others on the bench, such as wise old men, may lack.

Gingrich was so outraged by her remark that he went to Twitter to air his grievances. "Imagine a judicial nominee said 'my experience as a white man makes me better than a Latina woman.' New racism is no better than old racism,"☐ wrote Gingrich, adding: "White man racist nominee would be forced to withdraw. Latina woman racist should also withdraw."

6. Obama the secret Kenyan

It seems like it was ages ago that Gingrich told the National Review that President Obama was some sort of undercover Kenyan out to destroy America. That is the conclusion he reached after reading a Forbes article by Dinesh D'Souza that accused Obama of having an "African socialist"☐ agenda that he adopted from his Kenyan father. From the National Review interview:

Gingrich says that D'Souza has made a "stunning insight"☐ into Obama's behavior - the "most profound insight I have read in the last six years about Barack Obama."☐

"What if [Obama] is so outside our comprehension, that only if you understand Kenyan, anticolonial behavior, can you begin to piece together [his actions]?"☐ Gingrich asks. "That is the most accurate, predictive model for his behavior."

"I think Obama gets up every morning with a world view that is fundamentally wrong about reality,"☐ Gingrich says. "If you look at the continuous denial of reality, there has got to be a point where someone stands up and says that this is just factually insane."☐

The words speak for themselves.

7. Religious radical atheists?

In March, Gingrich gave a chilling speech about the frightening future in store for his grandchildren if godless liberals have it their way. Or was it Muslim liberals?

I am convinced that if we do not decisively win the struggle over the nature of America, by the time they're my age, they will be in a secular atheist country, potentially one dominated by radical Islamists and with no understanding of what it once meant to be an American.

Who knew that one could be both a secular atheist and radical Muslim at the same time?

8. So what if women get paid less?

In the land of Gingrich, the fact that women still make less than men isn't all that important. During a recent campaign stop at Harvard, Gingrich fielded a question from freshman undergraduate Holly Flynn, who said:

I'd like you to clarify your stance on women's rights. And I'd like to know what you'd do to ensure gender equality in the United States. Given that even today, women make 77 cents to every man's dollar.

Not only was Gingrich dismissive of the pay gap, he even twisted the facts around to showcase men as the real victims here:

Well, the latter is going to change dramatically in the next generation, because more women are going to college than men. And they're doing better than men and entering professions more than men," replied Gingrich. "In fact, if anything, you'll be here in 15 years wondering what we'll do about men inequality and male unemployment.

Because the people who had the deepest decline of income are males who don't go to college.

His analysis feeds into a larger narrative that says women are rising to the top and men are losing out, which is most apparent in what Alice O'Conner calls
"the myth of the mancession,"☐ referring to the notion that the recession has been far more devastating for men than women. O'Conner notes that men lost a greater share of jobs when the recession first hit, but only because "they are disproportionately represented in traditionally hard-hit and better-paying sectors of the economy."☐

9. Guilty until proven innocent

At the Nov. 22 CNN Republican debate on National Security, Gingrich said,
"I think it's desperately important that we preserve your right to be innocent until proven guilty," but only "if it's a matter of criminal law." He rejects applying these same basic standards in cases of national security" crimes for which he believes due process should be thrown out the window.

Gingrich makes the bizarre argument that if we allow alleged terrorists due process, America could be nuked. His words: "If you're trying to find somebody who may have a nuclear weapon that they are trying to bring into an American city, I think you want to use every tool that you can possibly use to gather the intelligence."☐It's unclear what this unlikely Jack Bauer scenario has to do with trying people who are already in custody.

10. Torture is not torture

At a town hall last week at the College of Charleston in South Carolina, an audience member asked Gingrich about his position on torture. Newt replied:

Waterboarding is by every technical rule not torture. [Applause] Waterboarding is actually something we've done with our own pilots in order to get them used to the idea to what interrogation is like. It's not - I'm not saying it's not bad, and it's not difficult, it's not frightening. I'm just saying that under the normal rules internationally, it's not torture.

I think the right balance is that a prisoner can only be waterboarded at the direction of the President in a circumstance which the information was of such great importance that we thought it was worth the risk of doing it, and I do that frankly only out of concern for world opinion. But we do not want to be known as a country that capriciously mistreats human beings.

Besides the fact that (a) waterboarding is morally reprehensible and (b) torture doesn't work, there is no doubt under international law that waterboarding is indeed a form of torture, according to Juan Mendez, the United Nations's Special Rapporteur on Torture. The U.S.

Army Field Manual also bans the use of waterboarding, because it's considered a form of torture.

11. Bonus: Death to drug dealers

In 1995, when Gingrich was Speaker of the House, he advocated using the death penalty against drug dealers, saying, "You import commercial quantities of drugs in the United States for the purpose of destroying our children. We will kill you."

When recently asked in an interview with Yahoo News whether he still supported executing drug dealers, he danced around the question, suggesting that drug cartel leaders should face the death penalty (which they already do in some circumstances).

He then praised Singapore, which enforces corporal punishment such as caning for minor offenses and the death penalty for drug offenses, as a model for drug policy, saying,
"Places like Singapore have been the most successful at doing that.
They've been very draconian. And they have communicated with great intention that they intend to stop drugs from coming into their country."

Tonight - 10pm - somewhere near but not on 3950. LSB.

Stash plenty of popcorn and diet coke and stuff.

I know - it was better when Y-Man proclaimed it.

But ... he seems to have abdicated his proclaimership.

Liberty Net: December 3, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/12/liberty-net-december-3-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE LIBERTY NET, if our download statistics are any indication, is becoming more and more popular, and thatï¿½s reflected in the many new amateur radio operators checking in and sharing their views.

Below youï¿½ll find a few samples of the ideas brought up this time on amateur radioï¿½s longest-running issues-oriented net, on the air since 1974:

ï¿½ Newt Gingrich seems to be getting a huge amount of unwarranted publicity from the billionairesï¿½ media these days. Having been an indirect employee of the oligarchs for decades, there is little doubt where his loyalties lie ï¿½ hence the publicity, and the likelihood that he will be the oligarchsï¿½ ï¿½anointed oneï¿½ for the Republican nomination. (18 minutes)

ï¿½ Guess who a leading Jewish group excluded from their Republican debate? Thatï¿½s right ï¿½ Ron Paul, of course. They say heï¿½s ï¿½too far outside the mainstream,ï¿½ despite the fact that has trounced all the other candidates again and again in polls, debates, and money raised. (20 minutes)

ï¿½ The American republic is now officially dead: Senate Bill 1867 gives the Washington regimeï¿½s military the ï¿½rightï¿½ to arrest you, imprison you forever without charge, torture you, and even kill you if they say they suspect you of ï¿½terrorism.ï¿½ (28 minutes)

ï¿½ According to Saudi Arabiaï¿½s highest religious council, allowing women to drive would lead to a ï¿½surge in prostitution and pornographyï¿½ and other evils. (40 minutes)

ï¿½ The Washington regimeï¿½s idea of increasing our ï¿½freedomsï¿½: The rules prohibiting sodomy and sex with animals among servicemen have now been repealed. (47 minutes)

ï¿½ In Denmark, virtually all rapes are committed by Black males on White females. But when a ten-year-old Danish girl was brutally raped by a Black ï¿½refugeeï¿½ recently, the media bosses in Denmark ï¿½ who are of the same tribe as the media bosses here ï¿½ told us that we should feel pity for the rapist and not his victim. (1 hour 10 minutes)

ï¿½ Once a patriotic government is installed to replace the Washington regime, one policy that could be implemented is humane outward emigration of Africans to Africa, which would benefit all parties.

(1 hour 21 minutes)

ï¿½ Beware those who tell you that the solution to debt slavery is more debt slavery. The only solution is an end to the entire debt-based system. (1 hour 50 minutes)

Donï¿½t be shy ï¿½ check in to amateur radioï¿½s historic Liberty Net every Saturday night ï¿½ on some clear frequency near (usually above) 3950 kHz SSB starting at 10PM Eastern Time. Recently the net has been meeting near 3981 to avoid interference; we have to be flexible. And check out our Internet feeds which can help you copy, and communicate with, weak stations.

Kudos and thanks go to Vic, W1WCR, for his decades of hard work for free speech and amateur radio!

My SW8 has recently developed an audio issue. It plays for a few seconds to a minute or so, then the audio just suddenly dies. I can still get audio out the line out jack, but nothing from the speaker or headphones. I strongly suspect the LA4555 output IC, but I would love to be able to do some signal tracing to make sure the problem doesn't lie further up the audio chain. Does anyone have, or know where I can find, a schematic or service manual for the SW8?

Have you tried a horizontal loop? I am quite amazed at mine and I'm pretty sure I'll never put up another random wire. Mine is a full wave at 80m and has great reduced noise performance all the way to 0.53 Mhz (lower end of BCB). You need a true BalUn to reduce noise across that wide a range (it'll receive all the way past the top of HF 30 MHz). MFJ has baluns for under 20 bucks or roll your own with appropriate ferrite forms (stolen from old TVs or computers).

Hopefully, the sheeple won't overlook his multiple marriage infidelities (one more than Cain -- and look where that got poor Herman), his spending half a million dollars at Tiffany's (like all of us average folks do)...and oh, yes, that he QUIT his job as Speaker before they could fire him for ethics violations (but I guess he was guilty anyway, because they fined him 300,000 bucks).

Three hundred million people in this country and the Republicans can't come up with anything better than these clowns?

Why is the world the way it is?
There is NO conflict among those who do not seek the unearned.

Seizing the unearned, being ceded the undeserved is the sine qua non of Liberalism.

The world factually is the way it is because of LIBs who think they can Fake Reality just as they can Fake the character of a Man, which is why we have the likes of Shameless Retail Politico's who believe they can "take from you in the name of the Common Good".

Such would NOT be tolerated in a society with a long memory.

'Intolerant governments across the globe are "slowly crushing" activist and advocacy groups that play an essential role in the development of democracy'
-- HILLARY'10 barely containing her knowing smile.

LIBs have decried the sins of man as destroying the world.
They have cursed human nature for its unwillingness to practice their virtue. A virtue based on sacrifice, demanding more sacrifieces at every successive disaster. In the name of a return to their core values, they have sacrificed all those evils which they held as the cause of their plight...

They have sacrificed justice to mercy.
They have sacrificed independance to unity.
They have sacrificed reason to blind faith in partisanship.
They have sacrificed wealth to need. They have sacrificed happiness to duty. They have sacrificed self-esteem to self-denial and self-delusion.

They believe that Political Power Grow out the Barrel of a Gun.
They believe that a Rock Throwing Thug just needs Love.
They who believe that a Suicide Bomber can't help it.
They who believe that one person's success can ONLY come at the expense of another.

The purpose of government is to reign in the rights of the people" Clinton'93.

If that's the way they believe,
why WOULDN'T we have a world the way it is?

"Every aspect of our lives must be subjected to an inventory"
-- Shameless Politico THUG, Nancy Pelosi'09.

A World,
Where the Guilty are Rewarded,
Where the Innocent are Punished.
Where the Mediocre, the Unworthy, the Depraved are Championed on the basis of their Mediocrity, their Unworthiness, their Depravity.

The motivation of Good Men who do Absolutely Nothing is the erroneous belief that it they WON'T be affected -- guess again.
OBAMA is showing us daily how actually-easy it is to get to you, starting with a Poisoned World with Toxic Debt and a cadre of Politico's who known nothing other than Expropriation.

The only thing necessary for Evil to Prosper is for Good Men to do Absolutely Nothing. Why not do Absolutely Nothing as the Desperate and Deliberately Evil pit Man against other men until we exist no more? If not now? When?
if not You? Who?

LIB's plead for a Morality which holds COMPROMISE as it's standard of Value, making it possible to judge Virtue on the basis of the number of Values which one is willing to Betray.

"it is wrong to believe that if security is embraced, liberty is sacrificed."

Those of us who believe it took a thinking mind to create what we see before us now need to pray for that mind to cause an event of biblical proportions, to remove the den of evil called "Washington" from this planet, along with all the scum inhabiting the foul dens there, to hell with them all -- the whitehouse, the senate, the house, every alphabet agency, etc.

These arseholes have trashed the Constitution and now behave like tyrants, murders and thieves.

The answer to these human swines crimes and the horrors they are releasing on the world is their removal from any possible positions of influence and power.

newt is bloated evil swine in human form, as bad or worse than the evil ones who have come before him.

It is time to do all within our abilities to bring this evil to a halt and remove the trash which has accumulated atop our Constitution, anyway possible, and better sooner than later ... the few good men and women left, if any, need to called upon to join up with this organization: http://oathkeepers.org/oath/

The battle against the evils of today has began, the first shot has been fired, the glove has been tossed to the earth -- good and just men will now rise to these challenges ...

On the whole, sheriffs are usually of a larger caliber, worth and value than all other forms of authority -- they are elected by the people.
Your police, in any given large city, are simply human swine smart enough to take illegal orders from the powers-which-be and commit the directed crimes upon the people. Going up, into federal marshals, fbi, cia, one enters the real dens of political and NWO evils ...

Treasonous criminals simply need hung in public squares until their rotten necks can no longer support the weight of their dead, swollen, rotting bodies ... the visual and smells are the deterrent to others who would enact and carry out crimes against Constitution and citizens ...

Yes, BAMA has it (for free) at this URL:

bama.edebris.com

Choose "drake" and then "SW8"

Good luck and let us know what you find.

Alas, BAMA has only the user manual, which I already found, and does not have a schematic.

I've looked all over the usual sources on the Web, and have so far come up with nothing. It's as if someone has scoured all traces of that schematic. Perhaps you can find a sympathetic ear at Drake.

Best of luck,

Kevin.

It's the power establishment's modus operendi. The same play book is used every election to insure election of their preferred sock puppet. I'm surprised they haven't dusted off Bob Dole to prop up as the nominee to insure Obama's "reelection". Presidential "elections" are a complete sham in this country, punch and judy shows designed to delude the public into thinking they have influence in government. You/we don't - the stakes are too high for the ruling elite to permit that. It's a club and we aren't in it - stop deluding yourself that it is otherwise.

It occurs to me, if you know the pinout on the suspect IC, you can trace out the path back to the detectors, or at least the preamp, and do your diagnostics, anyway.

A long way to go, but at least a start.

Ignore the teachings of Jesus Christ, and preach hatred instead. The needy should be punished, and the liberals who want to help them need to be punished more.

That's the Spirit!
Why Settle for the Lesser Evil EVER AGAIN?

Imagine a world where the body is canvas
the body is Clay, your will and Hers as the Brush and the KNIFE!

http://12angrymen.wordpress.com/2008/04/01/why-you-should-vote-for-hillary-clinton/
Why you should vote for Hillary Clinton

After unsuccessfully running her campaign on a string of lies, yesterday Hillary Clinton showed her true face and purpose to the American Public. Donning a robe of pure and utter darkness, she stood before the people of Pennsylvania on a cyclopean pedestal of untold horrors ...
The question many of you are likely asking now is, If Hillary will bring the world to its knees with madness, terror and death, why would you endorse her? The answer is simple, yet unintuitive.
Voting for Obama will lead to a reasoned presidency in which Republicans and Democrats finally bury hatchets and begin working for the good of the American people rather than their own personal bank accounts
...
So Vote Hillary! It may usher forth the final era of suffering for this world, but at least your death may be swift!

Why you stoopid fool, there is nothing wrong with calling for the arrest, imprisonment and death of a public servant who has committed war crimes, engaged in the treasonous actions of exporting guns to drug criminals, importing drugs, forging legal documents, etc.

If you are in doubt, read the damn Constitution! That dirty b*st*rd is

Secrets of the American Nomenklatura

With the rise of independent media, the secrets of the American
nomenklatura are coming into clearer focus, the shameless exploitation of the good will and treasure of the people increasingly put on view for all to see.

1. The media and the Democrats are joined at the hip and have created a "hereditary celebrity class"

One of the fastest ways to celebrity and fortune (besides perhaps going on Dancing with the Stars, being adopted into the Hilton or Kardashian families and making a porn video) is to be the child of a politician or a well connected political operative.

2. The political class views the taxpayers as cash cows to be milked for their own benefit and the benefit of their friends , children and contributors

Just days after Mead's plaint, we learned that the Department of Energy blew even more money on a Robert Kennedy Jr. project, than it did on the already well-known Solyndra fiasco.

3. The Supreme Court action on the three ObamaCare Cases it granted certiori on this week might well encapsulate the principle that we citizens are, in fact cash cows there for the federal government to milk.

James DeLong in a brilliant article explains this development.

Dead tvs with boards to take out are relatively cheap.

The last of those tvs i played with had dire soldering, and I suspected the modularisation was necessary to make such bad soldering produce a useful percentage of ok boards.

I suspect lack of joined up thinking. Designers think it makes the sets repairable and reduce the pile of dead boards, so implement it.
Then later the parts dept realise they can chanrge a pretty penny for these little boards, so do. It kills the original idea of course.

The interface question is fairly easy, pick your interface standards and award use of your system logo to any product that complies with these standards. You can probably get away with only one standard, and make match current practice of around 0.1-0.2v 10k at af.

Computers cost around 10x as much as a radio. So the extra cost of modularising is low in percentage terms for pcs, but high for radios.
And the savings of modularisation for pcs are medium to high, but for radios are mostly low.

It's a sad story.

But after thinking a lot, I assume, it is possible to win against the evil in fight. But better would be, to just turn the back on them and say: enough is enough.
It's all fraud and crime, wherever you look. Politics, 'culture', science or entertainment. Maybe it helps to ignore them and go the own way, but keep the nuts at a distance?

What is your option when they won't leave you alone? When in fact they insist on telling you that everything you believe is wrong, and that _you_ are the one that must change? When laws are passed which favor their friends, and prevent you from choosing what you desire?

Yeah, like computers. Every year I build another, from components ... however, I usually choose to keep my video card if no major improvements in them are available ... keep my 1200W power supply--since it still provide much more power than I am using, keep my network card ...

But, a new motherboard is something frequently upgraded--along with processor ... maybe memory ... maybe hard disk ... etc.

Modularized radio and you could have dozens of audio boards, low to high end audio, right up to HD ... new dials, new readouts, new 3.0 USB interface to a computer, etc.

No, modular radio simply would be best for consumer and bad for manufacturers ... who like very proprietary systems ... they would scream at having to attempt with a generic radio platform which could be just am or any combination right up to microwave bands ...

But, you did manage to mention the real truth of why it is not demanded by consumers ... consumers are simply too stoopid to realize the benefits and ask for them ... end of story.

JS

Secrets of the American Nomenklatura

With the rise of independent media, the secrets of the American
nomenklatura are coming into clearer focus, the shameless exploitation of the good will and treasure of the people increasingly put on view for all to see.

1. The media and the Democrats are joined at the hip and have created a "hereditary celebrity class"

One of the fastest ways to celebrity and fortune (besides perhaps going on Dancing with the Stars, being adopted into the Hilton or Kardashian families and making a porn video) is to be the child of a politician or a well connected political operative.

2. The political class views the taxpayers as cash cows to be milked for their own benefit and the benefit of their friends , children and contributors

Just days after Mead's plaint, we learned that the Department of Energy blew even more money on a Robert Kennedy Jr. project, than it did on the already well-known Solyndra fiasco.

3. The Supreme Court action on the three ObamaCare Cases it granted certiori on this week might well encapsulate the principle that we citizens are, in fact cash cows there for the federal government to milk.

James DeLong in a brilliant article explains this development.

Exactly, right up to and including the death of radio ... people still buy a seperate TV, then a stereo, etc.

I don't, my computer is now my TV and stereo ... a few years ago I had an am/fm radio on a pci card in a computer, it was never "great" but lead for me to await the development of better ... none has come. Everyone I had shown it to wanted one, and many ordered and some are still using them, in my family ...

So, I use my Flex for listening (www.flex-radio.com), and wait, and wait ... I now think radio is going to have to die and "be rediscovered" ... but we will see ...

But, the one device for every purpose is as dead as I can make it in my house ...

"Modular radio" is indeed possible. Almost all GOOD RF test equipment and professional grade receivers (Watkins Johnson, Racal etc) are modular in that each section is a tray or block with a 50 ohm connectorized input and output. But each module costs more than any consumer radio.

The 10.7 IF module for the IFR 1200 series is basically a fixed frequency single conversion superhet that has a parts cost of about thirty dollars, fifteen of which are the connectors and the metal tray and pan. Last I heard if you were so unfortunate as to need to buy one it was well in four figures. It is simpler than any AM/FM pocket 'transistor radio' you can get at Radio SHack and contains no ASICs, no microprocessor, and no custom coils or hybrids. All the miniature IF cans are Coilcraft catalog parts.

By contrast the total profit in the notebook PC I am typing this on is probably less than a hundred dollars and that includes that made by the silicon makers for the chips which constitute nine figure development budgets. The IF module has a board that could be laid out in twenty minutes by any competent OrCad operator from a netlist. 10.7 MHz and 455 kHz are trivial to lay out for. The single layer board probably costs three dollars apiece. he bare board fab in thei notebook's motherboard is probably considerably more and probably has eight to twelve layers.

The difference? Several Volume is one. Competition is another.

Very few people are even INTERESTED in radio outside the broadcast receiver in their car and the various wireless digital gizmos they own. The market is tiny. And that there is tends to be governments and such, so the businesses that cater to it are spoiled rotten.

Any mid to high range video card --NVIDIA/ATI/etc. are much more powerful and would be much more expensive, if they were totally proprietary and required all other components in their system to be proprietary and manufactured/sold/marketed by the same corp/company.

As already stated, manufacturers will fight to maintain the systems as they are, and they will damn well use any scare tactic or manufactured "monster" to cause the status quo to remain untouched and undisturbed.
However, the SW hobby will continue to decline, the media available on those declining platforms will continue to decline and be limited, etc.

Like I say, this will all have to fall, apparently, to a greater low than our eyes are reporting at the present time, before someone will finally stand against the downstream and cause improvements in design and hardware and software ...

What is happening is obvious, it seems like the only debate is what is responsible and causing it ... however, no matter what debate and arguments are posed, it is quite obvious all the WRONG things are being done at this present time ... but, all the hardware manufactures seem insane, as they keep churning out the same old, same old antiquated crap but expecting a different trend ... all we are seeing are the results of those endeavors ...

TV has gotten a partial reprieve, and probably will be rather short lived. The big screen TVs, plasma, then LED has kept the focus off the important question of, "I already have a computer, why don't I just drop in a card, or hook up an external USB dongle, and use my computer as my TV -- the big screen HD monitor can then serve as my computer monitor also?" If you visit a software engineers home, or hardware engineers home, you are likely to see such systems in use -- it is only for the general public to realize the benefits before they start doing the same ...

But, those ahead of the curve can, and are, already enjoying this ... perhaps the rest are simply unwilling or unable ... but I'd suggest the TV you buy have digital, HD, S-Video, etc. hookups ...

JS

Too high a pixel definition is just wasted with even HD TV, however, it makes such a TV perfect for use as a computer monitor ... you are

Ironically, those who say "power to the people" have never done the people any good whatsoever. The reason is what H.L. Mencken said:

"Democracy is the art of running the circus from the monkey cage."

People have only had it good when they had a leader who was genuinely for them.

The only American politician that did the people a lot of good was Huey Long. And that was because he had a lot of power. He needed power to go against the Rockefellers and other moneybags. Citizens should want their champion to have as much power as possible. Of course the media, which is owned by the moneybags, will call the champion a "dictator". Here are some quotes from the film "Huey Long" by Ken Burns:

"When he got done with his talk, the ones that hated him, didn't hate him any more."

"No home to live in, and yet there were houses vacant. No bread on the table, and yet we have a surplus of wheat. No clothes, and yet we have a surplus of cotton."

"I used to try to get things done by saying please, now I dynamite em out of my path."

"To diffuse opposition from the press he launched his own newspaper."

"The state militia and national guard were his private army. And effective political opposition had almost ceased to exist. It was the largest concentration of power in one mans hand the country had ever seen."

"According to the tables which we have assembled, it is our estimate that four percent of the American people own eighty five percent of the wealth of America. And that over seventy percent of the people of America don't own enough to pay the debts that they owe."

"We've got to have in candidate away from the Republican party, and away from the Democratic party, and I for one am perfectly willing to see that there is another choice in the United States in 1936."

"I think he came to the conclusion, that you cannot do the good that he wanted to do, and deliver the services that he wanted to deliver, and free people from the exploitation as he wanted to, you cannot do that in a democracy. That the pressures were too strongly against it, the pressures of large economic interests. Long despaired of democracy and turned to the rather dictatorial methods that he used."

"From Huey's point of view, to separate the rich from some of that wealth, in order that those who were less fortunate could have a little something, was worth paying a big price for."

"His critics were confusing the form of democracy with the fact of democracy. The people's votes didn't do them much good until Huey Long came along. Maybe his enemies didn't like his methods, but the people were getting what they voted for."

"The poor people had nothing at all, life was so hard for them, and he changed all of that. He promised there would be changes and there were changes, immediately. He was like a steam roller. He knew he was going to be killed."

"When he was shot he didn't fall, he walked out of the building."

"His last words were, 'Don't let me die, I've got so much to do'."

We are a democratic republic, our system, as set forth in the Constitution, is rule by the majority. The fools we elect to public servant offices are just that, public servants, from the president on down ... unfortunately, we have had our government usurped by criminally-treasonous puppets for corporate America and the rich elite puppet masters. Jefferson stated the required cure for the malady which plauges us today:

"God forbid we should ever be twenty years without such a rebellion.
The people cannot be all, and always, well informed. The part which is wrong will be discontented, in proportion to the importance of the facts
they misconceive. If they remain quiet under such misconceptions, it is lethargy, the forerunner of death to the public liberty. ...
And what country can preserve its liberties, if its rulers are not warned from time to time, that this people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms. The remedy is to set them right as to the facts, pardon and pacify them. What signify a few lives lost in a century or two? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time, with the blood of patriots and tyrants.
It is its natural manure." -- Thomas Jefferson, November 13, 1787, letter to William S. Smith, quoted in Padover's Jefferson On Democracy, ed., 1939

The other choice is rule by dictators and tyrants and/or rule by minorities ... a choice of fools ... but, when have fools ever been in short supply?

Or, simply, are there really those so foolish as not to see this for what it is:
http://www.infowars.com/the-death-of-rights-enshrined-on-bill-of-rights-day/
-- a totally treasonous act, ratified, passed, signed and now to be enforced by criminals?

Who cannot recognize that with such actions, the above only being one of many, mean that we no longer have a legitimate government, that government has overstepped the bounds of the Constitution?

Who would recognize, or respect, such a government -- I say those who would are un-American, are criminals in support of criminals who have usurped the legit government of the USA. I say one cannot put too much emphasis on the high crimes being enacted on the people, the people who are the only legitimate government under the Constitution.

I say only fools, morons and idiots are not angered in the disregard this hoists upon us ... I say it is time to tell them to stop this chit, get this chit off the books and get time into their prison cells and end their high crimes.

This is no joke, this is real, it is time for real men, real patriots, real citizens to stand up and say enough is enough ...

And, why doesn't someone have a pirate radio station, something like "The Voice Against American Tyranny," or such, up and running and attempting to educate the ignorant masses?

JS

Not back then and even if there was one there wasn't an Internet, Craigslist, and Ebay to find it. And even if you get past all that a hurricane was on the way and even in this day and age things don't instantaneously appear on your doorstep.

I was being a bit flippant but I think you've hit the target. It's a lot more likely the reason for modularity was for in house test and manufacture than a noble notion of home repairability. Someone might have thrown it in as an additional 'feature' but I doubt it was the primary factor.

No company I've been in has been that 'disjointed' and departments don't get to charge whatever they think a good idea. It's usually a well planned, from all angles, cost/profit margin analysis including expected warranty and after sales service revenues.

That doesn't mean they necessarily get it 'right' but if that were 'the plan' they sure wouldn't let some yahoo in the parts department arbitrarily screw it up.

Yeah, I just don't see it but, hey, if someone has the guts and Actually, no, and that was the point. They're not 'like computers'.

So do I.

But I wouldn't if, like the 'modular TV' brought up elsewhere (or a radio), each of the 'modular parts' cost darn near as much as the whole thing. Or, put the other way, I wouldn't if I could buy a 'whole' new one for only a little more than the cost of a hard drive.

>Modularized radio and you could have dozens of audio boards, low to high

If you're going to replace all that you might as well save the interface crap and stuff the rest of the parts for a whole radio.

Not to mention there's no reason to 'right up to' HD when the detector isn't and the band isn't either. So you have to change all that, which is a whole blooming radio.

Actually, I see a distinct possibility that, that may just happen.

If you examine ebay closely, you will notice the chinese and HK are direct marketing to the USA, using NO middle man here. Like any developing industrial nation, the life blood is innovation and "going where no man has gone before."

Once China realize it has no need to let corps profit, here, from their sweat there, they will have the equip. and cheap labor in place to bring communication receivers and xmitters up to the current age, and damn cheaply ... plus, they wont have the overhead of the "politics" and proprietary thinking which plagues our present lazy and monopolistic companies here ... anyway, just a possibility.

This documentary by Myron Fagan explains it all!

C/P

[3. Racial Strife.]

At this point let me remind you of another of the important jobs that was assigned to Schiff when he was dispatched to America. I refer to the job of destroying the unity of the American people by creating minority-group and racial strife. By the pogrom-driven Jewish refugees

into America, Schiff was creating one ready-made minority group for that purpose. But the Jewish people, as a whole, made fearful by the pogroms, could not be depended upon to create the violence necessary to destroy the unity of the American people.

But right within America, there was an already made-to-order, although as yet a sleeping minority group, the Negroes, who could be sparked into so-called demonstrations, rioting, looting, murder, and every other type of lawlessness. All that was necessary, was to incite and arouse them. Together, those two minority groups, properly maneuvered, could be used to create exactly the kind of strife in America the Illuminati would need to accomplish their objective.

Thus at the same time that Schiff and co-conspirators were laying their plans for the entrapment of our money system, they were also perfecting plans to hit the unsuspecting American people with an explosive and terrifying racial upheaval that would tear the people into hate-factions and create chaos throughout the nation, especially on all college and university campuses, all protected by Earl Warren decisions and our so-called leaders in Washington. Of course, perfecting those plans required time and infinitely patient organizing.

Now to remove all doubts, I take a few moments to give you documentary proof of this racial strife plot. First of all they had to create leadership and organizations to draw in millions of dupes, both Jewish and Negroes, who would do the demonstrating and commit the rioting, looting, and lawlessness.

So in 1909, Schiff, the Lehmans, and other conspirators, organized and set up the "National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People" known as the NAACP. The presidents, directors, and legal councils of the NAACP were always white men, Jews, appointed by Schiff, and this is the case to this very day.

Then in 1913, the Schiff group organized the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith commonly known as the ADL to serve as the gestapo and hatchet-man outfit for the entire great conspiracy. Today this sinister ADL maintains over 2,000 agencies in all parts of the country and they advise and completely control every action of the NAACP or of the Urban League of all the other so-called Negro civil rights organizations throughout the nation including such leaders as Martin

'Lucifer' King, Stockely Carmichael, Bayard Rustin, and others of that ilk.

In addition, the ADL acquired absolute control of the advertising budgets of many department-stores, hotel-chains, and TV and Radio industrialist sponsors, also advertising-agencies in order to control practically all the mass-communications media and force every loyal newspaper to slant and falsify the news and to further incite, and, at the same time create sympathy for, the lawlessness and violence of the Negro mobs.

Here is documentary proof of the beginning of their deliberate plot to foment the Negroes into all their lawlessness:

Around 1910, one Israel Zengwill wrote a play entitled "The Melting-Pot". It was sheer propaganda to incite the Negroes and Jews because the play purportedly visualized how the American people were discriminating against, and persecuting Jews and Negroes. At that time nobody seemed to realize that it was a propaganda play-- it was that cleverly-written. The propaganda was well wrapped up in the true, great entertainment in the play, and it was a big Broadway Hit.

Now in those years, the legendary Diamond Jim Brady used to throw a banquet at the famous Delmonico Restaurant in New York after the opening-performance of a popular play. He threw such a party for the cast of "The Melting-Pot", its author, producer, and chosen Broadway celebrities. By then I'd already made a personal mark on the Broadway Theater and was invited to that party. There I met George Bernard Shaw and a Jewish writer named Israel Cohen. Zangwill, Shaw, and Cohen were the triumvirate who created the Fabian Society in England and had worked closely with a Frankfurt Jew named Mordicai who had changed his name to Karl Marx, but remember, at that time both Marxism and Communism were just emerging and nobody paid much attention to either, and nobody suspected the propaganda in the writings of those three really brilliant writers.

At that banquet, Israel Cohen told me that he was then engaged in writing a book which was to be a follow-up on Zangwill's "The Melting-
Pot". The title of his book was to be "A Racial Program for the 20th Century." At that time I was completely absorbed by my work as a playwright, and significant as that title was, its real objective never dawned on me nor was I interested in reading the book. But it suddenly hit me with the force of a hydrogen bomb when I received a newspaper clipping of an item published by the Washington D.C. Evening Star in May 1957. That item was a verbatim reprint of the following excerpt in Israel Cohen's book "A Racial Program for the 20th Century" and it reads as I quote:

"We must realize that our party's most powerful weapon is racial tension. By propounding into the consciousness of the dark races, that for centuries they have been oppressed by the whites, we can move them to the program of the communist party. In America, we will aim for subtle victory. While inflaming the Negro minority against the whites, we will instill in the whites a guilt-complex for their exploitation of the Negroes. We will aid the Negroes to rise to prominence in every walk of life, in the professions, and in the world of sports and entertainment. With this prestige, the Negro will be able to intermarry with the whites and begin a process which will deliver America to our cause."

That same excerpt was entered into the Congressional Record of June 7, 1957, by Representative Thomas G. Abernathy. Thus the authenticity of that passage in Cohen's book was fully established. But the one question that remained in my mind was whether it represented the official policy or plot of the Communist Party or just a personal expression of Cohen himself. Hence I sought more proof and I found it in an official pamphlet published in 1935 by the New York Communist Party's official Workers' Library Publishers. That pamphlet was entitled The Negroes in a Soviet America. It urged the Negroes to rise up, form a soviet-state in the south, and apply for admission to the Soviet Union. It contained a firm pledge that the revolt would be supported by all American 'reds' and all so-called liberals. On page 38, it promised that a Soviet government would confer greater benefits to Negroes than to whites and again this official communist pamphlet pledged that, I quote: "any act of discrimination or prejudice against a Negro will become a crime under the revolutionary law." That statement proved that the excerpt in Israel Cohen's book published in 1913 was an official edict of the Communist Party and directly in line with the Illuminati blueprint for world revolution issued by Weishaupt and later by Albert Pike.

Now there's only one question and that is to prove that the communist regime is directly controlled by the American Jacob Schiff and London Rothschild masterminds of the great conspiracy. A little later I will provide that proof that will remove even a remote doubt that the Communist Party, as we know it, was created by those masterminds, capitalists if you will note, that Schiff, the Warburgs, and the Rothschilds planned and financed the entire Russian Revolution, also the murder of the Czar and his family, and that Lenin, Trotsky, and Stalin took their orders directly from Schiff and the other capitalists whom they supposedly are fighting.

Now can you see why the vile Earl Warren and his equally vile co-Supreme Court justices issued that infamous and treasonous desegregation decision in 1954? It was to aid and abet the plot of the Illuminati conspirators to create tension and strife between the Negroes and Whites. Can you see why the same Earl Warren issued his decision prohibiting Christian prayers and Christmas carols in our schools? It was done to destroy Christianity. Can you see why Eisenhower, despite all the rigid constitutional prohibitions, sent federal troops into a southern state to enforce the desegregation decision? Why Kennedy did likewise? And can you see why Johnson and 66
Senators, despite the protests of 90% of the American people, voted for the Consular Treaty which opens our entire country to Russian spies and saboteurs? All those 66 Senators are 20th century 'Benedict Arnolds'.

It is up to you and you, all of the American people, to force Congress, our elected servants, to haul in those American traitors for impeachments and that when proven guilty, they all be given the punishment prescribed for traitors who aid and abet our enemies. And that includes the forcing of rigid investigations by Congress of the CFR and all their fronts, such as the ADL, the NAACP, SNIC, and such Illuminati tools as Martin 'Lucifer' King. Such investigations will completely unmask all the leaders in Washington and the Illuminati and all their affiliations and affiliates as traitors carrying out the Illuminati plot. It will completely unmask the United Nations as the intended crux of the entire plot and force Congress to take the US out of the UN and hurl the UN out of the US. In fact, it will destroy the UN and the entire plot.

Before I close this phase, I wish to reiterate and stress one vital point which I urge you to never forget if you wish to save our country for your ...

No, I'm not 'mistaken'. DSPs and microcontrollers are not like the 'modular computer' you were speaking of nor are the reasons and cost/benefit ratios even remotely similar.

>Yeah, that is the part which need fixed ...

Good luck. It's not likely to be because of the component costs, manufacturing efficiencies, and market demand.

A hard drive, for example, is 'naturally' a 'modular component' because the platters, motor, head mechanism, read/write electronics, interface, and air tight enclosure are all necessary for the thing to function regardless of any 'intent' to make it 'modular'.

On the other end, sound cards and NICs, which used to be your 'modular components', are usually integrated onto the motherboard these days and the trend is to do the same with the display card. AMD even integrates these into their APU processors.

Fact of the matter is large scale integration and automated board assembly are fantastic cost savers and, using the above examples, by the time you consider the 'modular cost' of additional board real estate, connectors, mechanicals, handling, stock and packaging the on-board sound and NIC are essentially 'free', or less.

Btw, for a large chunk of consumers your 'modular computer' isn't seen as 'modular' because even replacing the internal hard drive is a frightening mystery and you might as well ask them to do brain surgery on themselves as imagine they'll ever replace a motherboard.

Your 'simple receiver' on a card or dongle isn't a 'modular radio' and people looking for a 'travel' receiver are going to have a hard time backpacking a PC.

Okay, so "that's not the market." Fine. What is the market, how big is it, what do they really want, and what would they pay for it?

You said "Modularized radio and you could have dozens of audio boards... right up to HD"

Look, this is typical, what I call, 'engineers syndrome': fascination with technology and 'what you could do'. That's a wonderful thing, and necessary, but what's missing is whether it actually serves a need and whether people would buy it.

It's also a common 'marketing survey' mistake. "Which of the following features would you like? <check box> <check box> <check box> <check box> " Well, hell yes I'd 'like' all those.

Add "would you pay $x for it" and the answers are usually quite different.

No, I'm just using my product manager hat and, as I said in another post, I just don't see it. But maybe that's because everyone makes little but grandiose generic claims with no specifics.

> what
>I am pointing out needs changed ...

Says you. The real question is how many would pay good money for what? And I mean specifically, not "would you like a modular radio?" Hell, yes, I'd 'like' a modular radio.

"Would you pay $??? for it?"

Well, that's another question.

Well if you are ruled by the wrong kind of people, revolution is a good idea. But it's not the right idea right now, due to the low chance of success. It would just get a lot of people killed or locked up without changing the system.

You are automatically against a leader, regardless how good he is, just because he is a leader. Your philosophy is wrong and very harmful.

Many people think they arrive at their own ideas all by themselves, when in fact their ideas are usually made for them by Hollywood. Take two movies that are anti-leadership propaganda, Gladiator, and Braveheart.

In Gladiator they show a corrupt leader of Rome, but would it be corrupt if Maximus was the leader? That would be much better than having the lame senators running Rome. And of course in Braveheart the Scots should have made William their leader. If he was the leader he could have put the corrupt nobles in their place.

The purpose of the propaganda is to stop good people from wanting power. The people who have the real power now, the bankers and the media, are not threatened in the least by libertarians. But if there was a leader that was really for the people they know they would be put in their place.

In democracies money talks and those who can buy TV stations are the rulers. These rulers don't even claim to be for anything but their own profits and interests. People are much better off with a good leader who has power above the money power.

Yeah, everything was once impossible, that number of "impossible things" shrinks daily ... only one thing is certain in this world, if you say impossible and live long enough, you will be proven wrong ...

You are right that you are ruled by lowlifes. But most of "the people" believe whatever their TV sets tell them to believe. If you have legitimate gripes against the government you might say what they are. There are tons of really serious gripes. But "power to the people" is only communist propaganda.

It's true that they belong in prison for high crimes. But you don't say what the crimes are. How about letting all the jobs go to China and Mexico for example. But who knows what you want. You might be a capitalist who is fine with that. All you want is to make sure no one has a lot of power. Even if the man with the power is going to stop the jobs from going to Mexico and China.

You are right that the government is rotten to the core. I wish you good luck. Because just about anything would probably be an improvement.

Topaz is lying. The American Nazi Party is also behind Occupy Wall Street.

Topaz doesn't get his info from the TV, though. He gets it from the tight-knit group of glue-sniffing pedophiles that swap the same stories back and forth again and again.

That's why you'll never see any new ideas come from this group- just the same Mein Kampf quotes over and over until they pass out.

Meanwhile, we continue to run the world, and they're powerless to do anything about it except watch.

Liberty Net: December 10, 2011

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE LIBERTY NET is an oasis of free speech for radio amateurs who care about the kind of world that our children will inherit. We donï¿½t always come to the table ï¿½ or go away from it ï¿½ agreeing with each other. But we always come away with increased understanding ï¿½ and a growing sense of community. And, as civilization declines and tyranny spreads, weï¿½ll need plenty of both.

Marty, N2IRJï¿½s phone patch brings voices to the air who are temporarily without antennas or transmitters. If youï¿½d like him to patch you in, just drop him a line via the ï¿½contactï¿½ tab at the top of this page.

Here are some excerpts from this weekï¿½s discussion:

ï¿½ A Black Georgia Congressman has recently claimed that merely stating in public that Obama has lied ï¿½will bring about a resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan.ï¿½ (27 minutes)

ï¿½ Would switching our nuclear power stations over to thorium reactors make them just as safe as conventional power plants? (1 hour 13 minutes)

ï¿½ The regime in Washington claims to have the right to fly spy drones and killer drones over any country in the world. But how would we feel if Iran, or any other foreign nation, did that to us? (1 hour 16 minutes)

ï¿½ Fox News was just caught using video of riots in Greece and falsely claiming that they were taking place in Russia. The oligarchs have lost control there, and the mediaï¿½s intensifying ï¿½hate Russiaï¿½ and ï¿½hate Putinï¿½ propaganda may be a precursor to another bankersï¿½ war. (1 hour 18 minutes)

ï¿½ Why are agents of Israel and the Washington regime sending terrorists into Syria? And why are such agents of violence and murder often blithely referred to as ï¿½the oppositionï¿½ by the likes of Fox News? (1 hour 47 minutes)

ï¿½ A collapse of the current corrupt financial system will mean hard times, but it would not be the end of the world as long as the genetic quality of the people is maintained. And such a collapse would give us a chance to create something better. (3 hours 26 minutes)

ï¿½ Americans who still have assets to protect would do well to study the examples of the French farmers during World War 2, and, more recently, the Argentinians and Russians who managed to survive a financial collapse. (3 hours 50 minutes)

ï¿½ It seems bizarre and grotesque, but the murderers who operate the Washington regimeï¿½s killer drones are actually recruiting teenagers who are good at shoot-em-up video games to become real killers. (4 hours 2 minutes)

Thanks to Marty, N2IRJ, youï¿½re able to listen to the Liberty Net on your computer ï¿½ or download the file and listen on your portable mp3 player. And he operates a live feed and chat during Net times that lets you make an end run around jammers and a fickle ionosphere.

Please check in with your call sign, and add your voice to the most exciting net on the amateur bands ï¿½ every Saturday night, starting at 10PM Eastern Time. The frequency varies to avoid interference, but lately has been near 3981 kHz LSB.

Our deepest thanks go to W1WCR for his hard work and courage in running the Liberty Net, which is now in its 37th year.

So what. If communists are against the worthless parasites in Wall Street they are right about that. That doesn't mean the rest of their agenda is any good. That doesn't mean that every couch potato and sports fan should have power. Only that every couch potato and sports fan should have a job and a good life.

Here is part of a speech by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, delivered in Nuernberg on September 13th, 1935 at the Seventh National-Socialist Party Congress:

"Almost without exception, the intellectual leaders of Marxist atheism in Germany were Jews, among them being Erich Weinert, Felix Abraham, Dr. Levy-Lenz and others. At regular meetings, held in the presence of a notary public, members were requested to register their declaration of withdrawal from their church for a fee of 2 Marks. And this the fight for atheism was carried on. Between 1918 and 1933 the withdrawals from the German Evangelical Churches alone amounted to two-and-a-half million persons in Germany. The programme which these atheistic societies laid down in regard to sexual matters is amply charcterized in the following demands publicly expressed at meetings and distributed in leaflet form:

1) The complete abrogation of the paragraphs of the law dealing with the crime of abortion, and the right to have abortion procured free of charge in State Hospitals.

2) Non-interference with prostitution.

3) The abrogation of all bourgeois-capitalistic regulations in regard to marriage and divorce.

4) Official registration to be optional and the children to be educated by the community.

5) Abrogation of all penalties for sexual perversities and amnesty to be granted to all persons condemned as 'sexual criminals'.

"Truly a case of methodical insanity, which has for its aim the wilful destruction of the nations and their civilization and the substitute of barbarism as a fundamental principle of public life.

"Where are the men behind the scenes of this virulent world movement? Who are the inventors of all this madness? Who transplanted this ensemble into Russia and is today making the attempt to have it prevail in other countries? The answer to these question discloses the actual secret of our anti-Jewish policy and our uncomromising fight against Jewry; for the Bolshevic International is in reality nothing less than a Jewish International."

Weekly Highlights and Forecasts
#
Highlights of Solar and Geomagnetic Activity
05 - 11 December 2011

Solar activity was at predominantly low levels for the summary period. From 05 - 06 December, two regions dominated the disk in size and solar flare production, Region 1363 (S21, L=108, class/area=Eki/620 on 05 December) and Region 1362 (N08, L=131, class/area=Eso/220 on 03 December). Both regions produced multiple C-class events with Region 1363 responsible for the largest event of the period, a C6/Sf flare at 05/2325 UTC. From 07 - 10 December, Region 1374 (S17, L=352, class/area=Dso/210 on 11 December) and Region 1375 (N08, L=356, class/area=Cso/140 on 11 December) dominated the disk, each producing several small C-class events. The only days of the summary period with activity at very low levels were 06 and 11 December . Multiple coronal mass ejections (CMEs) were observed throughout the week, however, none of them were geoeffective.

No proton events were observed at geosynchronous orbit.

The greater than 2 MeV electron flux at geosynchronous orbit was at moderate levels from 05 - 09 December. A return to background levels was observed on 10 December.

Geomagnetic activity was at predominantly quiet levels during the summary period. From 05 - 08 December, quiet conditions were observed at all latitudes. On 09 December, an isolated period of active conditions was observed at high latitudes. On 10 December, quiet to unsettled conditions were observed as a coronal hole high speed stream (CH HSS) moved into a geoeffective position. Solar wind speed increased from around 330 km/s to around 500 km/s at the ACE spacecraft and the total IMF rose to around 11 nT. Another isolated period of active conditions was observed at high latitudes on 11 December as a result of the CH HSS effects.

Forecast of Solar and Geomagnetic Activity
14 December - 09 January 2012

Solar activity is expected to be at predominately low levels with a chance for isolated M-class activity from 12 - 22 December. A decrease to predominantly low levels is expected from 23 -24 December as Regions 1374 and 1375 rotate off the disk. An increase to a slight chance for M-class activity is expected on 25 December as Region 1363 returns and remain for the duration of the forecast period.

No proton events are expected at geosynchronous orbit.

The greater than 2 MeV electron flux at geosynchronous orbit is expected to be at normal to moderate levels the entire forecast period (14 December - 09 January).

Geomagnetic field activity is expected to be at mostly quiet levels from 14 - 25 December. Quiet to unsettled conditions are expected on 26 - 29 December due to effects from a recurrent CH HSS. A return to quiet levels is expected from 30 December - 04 January followed by an increase to quiet to unsettled levels on 05 - 06 January due to effects from a second recurrent CH HSS. Mostly quiet conditions are expected for the remainder of the period.

Looks like you are saying that General Jack D. Ripper (from 'Dr.
Strangelove') was right -- it's all about the purity of our "precious bodily fluids".

No, not at all. But that was an hilarious movie! I like the scene where someone is firing on General Ripper's office with a machine gun and, when the shooting subsides, Ripper leans out the window and shouts "Nice shootin', soldier!" There are many equally classic lines in that film.

Genetic quality means something quite different. It's the difference between those who can and do make cathedrals and Saturn V rockets and microprocessors and _Tales of Mystery and Imagination_ -- and those who could never do any more than trash and burn them, no matter how many times they repeat the 8th grade.

With sufficient numbers of the former, we can rebuild anything, probably better than before.

With sufficient numbers of latter, particularly if they can outvote us, we are doomed.

With all good wishes,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

First, before anything, we need to get rid of the crooks, simply naming, then renaming, then defining, etc., etc., their crimes and treason is how we got here and what is keeping us here, it is time to get them into prison cells or onto the gallows and honest men in the offices -- only then will we begin to move forward.

Yes, the problem is, you have to do something before you reach the nazi germany state of affairs -- if you don't think us already too close, they you may stay asleep, using that same excuse, until it really doesn't matter ... personally, things don't have to get any worse for me ...

The people are the leader, they ARE the government. Their needs, their collective judgements, their powers, their wants -- this is the Constitution and the only legitimate law of the USA.

An much better example is hitler and nazi germany, all those people got behind a single man, killed millions and wished to bring the whole world to its' knees before them ... the criminal public servants of ours are much, much worse. They shred the Constitution to be able to enact torture, and now they have passed laws to make indefinite imprisonment of Americans, and even their torture, "legal" -- that type of criminal deserves the court, prison and/or the gallows ...

Actually, quite a good analogy, we ARE THE NEW ROME! Just as run amok, just as criminal, just as brutal, just as savage, just as uncaring towards our own citizens, etc.

You are probably correct, it is quite possible the only thing which will make an impression on them is the mob at the doors of frankenstein castle -- screaming for blood ...

In the democratic republic, as defined in our Constitution, the people are the government, they elect public servants, from the president on down, to do their bidding, maintain their country and make sure Americans have all their creator granted freedoms, rights and privileges ... these criminals who have usurped power and illegally hold these offices are simply self serving and want to use public resources to enrich their puppet masters for personal gain -- this is nothing new, this is what criminals always do, the mafia and drug cartel are just smaller examples of what is occurring on a national scale in the USA.

The only thing that bothers me about this thinking, is tendency to delineate lines of class to determine who is and is not of the former, against the latter.

Humans tend to see individual behaviour and broaden that behaviour into classes based on anything but behaviour. And then exclude the class.

Along socio-economic or even racial lines, this tendency can exclude prime examples of the desirable behaviours, in an effort to exclude the more generally classed undesirable behaviours.

Abilities, such as your examples of building cathedrals, Saturn V rockets, or microprocessors, and creation of "Tales of Mystery and Imagination" can be, and often are, learned. Genetics may account for the blank slate, but what one writes on it is a matter of development, and personal choice.

At the individual levels, anyone of any class may excel, pursuant to one's values, instilled during rearing, and one's inate drive to absorb, synthesize and create. And, while these individuals of accomplishment may be rare to a class, it's these very individuals who may be excluded by politically derived class divisions along 'genetic' lines. And these are precisely the individuals a society needs to be productive, and broadly developed.

If we are to take stock along genetic lines, let us take stock by evaluating individuals. Not the classes from which they rise.

And let's keep our standards of purity scientifically honest enough to include the evaluation of the genes of all individuals of accomplishment, no matter from which pool they arise.

So is the "journey into it can't be done", one step at a time, the first

Trouble is, it's the people who go against the Constitution, and who exempt themselves from the laws everybody else has to follow who define "treason".

Of course it will become a fine and proper government when a Republican is in the White House. Blind faith.

How odd that the private militias were so defensive about our civil rights when Clinton was President, but vanished when Bush was in charge, not a peep out of them about the Patriot Act.

Then! Suddenly! Their on the rise again, not because of freedom, but because there isn't a Republican in the White House.

Of course we all know that the Michigan Militia went corporate and transitioned into a well compensated corporate entity hired by the Bush regime called Blackwater. Now called Academi– previously known as Xe Services LLC, Blackwater USA and Blackwater Worldwide.

How fashionable. How freedom loving and bipartisan!

Nobody on the right objected to The Patriot Act because it was Bush!

If it had been the idea of a Democrat, civil war would have broken out!

Yeah, you have the brain dead football mentality, pick a team (or political party) and root for it ...

It is a fixed game, the democrats are the republicans, the republicans are the democrats ... DUH!

The problem is, you can't tell that a republican is the same animal as a democan ... just differing names ...

RON PAUL in 2012, anything else is just the same type of criminal with a different name ...

The Constitution is for limiting and defining the limited powers which the people agreed to grant to government in order to have public servants to carry out their will.

Right from the get-go, you show your complete ignorance of what the Constitution is, and is NOT ... you can see why you are then just disregarded ...

bush and anyone, and everyone, supporting it, passing it, or enforcing it should be given long prison terms ... if obama hangs, let's not see him hang alone, bush should accompany him ... and for the same reason(s), high crimes of treason against American citizens -- and war crimes, of course.

Actually, I have purchased my last SW radio ... unless new life comes in, somewhere, some time ... others mileage may vary ... most worthwhile content can now be found on the net -- without static and fading ...

So, actually, you are quite correct, it looks to be a moot point, until something changes ...

Ron Paul? You mean the "Libertarian" who has collected a government wage since 1997? The same guy whose son Randy (another "Libertarian") thought so highly of his fathers new job, that he became a government employee too?

Rand (I'm Randy, not named after Ayn Rand) Paul is a joke, so is his father.

Libertarians gain 1% of the vote during every election. Similar to the 1% who watch Fox News it appears.

"My amazement will never cease when it comes to the tortured admissions of the Jewish extremists. Of course, they face a dilemma, how do they inform their flock of their power and at the same time trivialize it for Gentile consumption? At one point they boast about their influence in government, and in the next instance they deny it.
They condemn commentators such as myself and the authors of the recent Harvard paper, professors Walt and Mearsheimer, for pointing out the enormous influence of Jewish/Israeli extremists in American politics, and in the next breath they boast of of their incredible influence.

I will offer some excerpts from an article recently appearing in the Jerusalem Post, one of the most prestigious daily newspapers in Israel and read by considerable numbers of non-Jews. Because of its significant Gentile readership, the JP is far more guarded than many other Jewish publications and much less cautious than the Hebrew language dailies published in Israel and abroad.

Let's begin a short analysis by noting the Headline: "Top White House Posts Go to Jews." Imagine if Professors Walt and Mearsheimer or I came out with a statement or press release titled "Top White House Posts Go to Jews." Or imagine if any member of Congress had the temerity simply to say that, "White House Policy is now in the hands of Jews.." If I say it or you say it, its "anti-Semitism," if Jewish newspapers say it somehow it is not. Somehow it is "anti-Semitic for www.davidduke.com to headline it, but not for the Jerusalem Post.
Notice the first two paragraphs of the article. After saying that White House policy is "now in the hands of two Jews," they immediately say this fact is not seen as significant by activists in the American Jewish community.

After appointing Joshua Bolten to be the White House chief of staff,
US President George W. Bush nominated another Jewish staffer, Joel Kaplan, to serve as Bolten's deputy, putting him in charge of the daily policy planning.

The fact that White House policy is now in the hands of two Jews is not seen as significant by activists in the American Jewish community. If the fact that White House policy being "now in the hands of two Jews" is not significant then why pray tell is this major article in the Jerusalem Post in the first place? And, truly, can it not be significant that two Jewish partisans for Israel "now hold White House policy in their hands"? Doesn't it make more sense for White House policy to be held in the hands of men who are dedicated to the interests of the United States and not be affected by their extreme partisanship for a foreign country?

In the course of the article many admissions are made, and frankly the Jewish influenced White House sounds more like the functioning of the Israeli cabinet rather than the American executive branch. We hear about Jewish prayers and symbolism, Jewish ethnocentric celebrations such as Purim, which of course is the celebration of the massacre of Haman and Gentiles who threaten Jews, and we even hear of a Chabad Lubavitch Rabbi, Levi Shemtov, reading the Purim megilla. Here are the exact words of the Jerusalem Post:

One tradition likely to go on is the reading of the Purim megilla led by Chabad Rabbi Levi Shemtov, which attracts many of the Jewish staffers.

The Purim Megilla is a lesson for Jews to always stick together and fight for Jewish interests against Gentiles and to strike down Gentiles who they believe threaten them. Is that what the Jewish staffers want to hear? And what exactly is the Chabad?
The Chabad preaches that "All Jews are the sons of God" and that Gentiles are a different species with evil souls of an inferior order. It preaches that the purpose of the very existence of Gentiles is to "serve Jews." It preaches that Israel must rule the entire world. A representative of this Jewish philosophy is now gracing our White House.

Do some of you reading this who are new to the world of Jewish supremacism think I am making this up?

Go Chabad Lubavitch websites and start researching. When you find the truth, you will be on your way to much greater understanding of the modern world."

David Duke, Phd

Here is a direct quote from a Chabad Lubavitch Website concerning proper Jewish attitudes toward Gentiles. Remember that according to the Jerusalem Post a Chabad Rabbi is now doing readings in the White House.

A. The Ra'avad
We have already mentioned the words of the Ra'avad with regards to an animal slaughtered by a Gentile: "for the Gentiles are like animals and one who thinks of them as something [worthwhile] will gather the wind in his fist."

In Netzach Yisrael chapter 14 (page 83) it is written:
"Israel is special and separate from all the Gentiles, for the Gentiles are on a materialistic level, whereas Israel is on the 'form' level as Chazal said: 'You are called men and the nations are not called men,' as though it were an ordinary thing for them, that the comparison between Israel and the Gentiles is similar to the comparison between man and animals who cannot speak, and this is because man is distinct from animals in that he is not materialistic and physical like the rest of the animal world; man is intelligent.

Jews, therefore, are the "true humanity," whereas the Gentiles are only "on a low level of humanity"; Jews "are true humanity from its authentic roots," whereas the other nations are "all on the level of Man in his fallen state" - and therefore "are treated as ones belonging to completely different genera."

One who reads the words of the Ramchal will notice how precisely he chose them and how accurately they represent the words of Rabbi Shimon bar Yochai, "You are called men."

G. Rabbi Tzadok HaCohen of Lublin
In the book Poked Akarim page 19, column 3, he wrote:
"Concerning what is explained in Yevamot, 'You are called men,' and not the other nations, [the meaning is] that the Gentiles were deprived of the title 'men' only where Israel were called 'men,' because in comparison to I, who are the primary form of man in the Divine Chariot, it is irrelevant to call any of the Gentiles 'men'; at most, they are like animals in the form of men. Taken as themselves, however, all the children of Noah are considered men and when the Messiah comes they too will recognize and admit that there are none called 'man' except Israel anyway, in comparison to Israel even now In Sha'ar Klipat Noga, chapter 3, it is written:

"Now you will understand what the animalistic soul of man is; it is the good and evil inclination in man. The soul of the Gentiles comes from the three klipot: wind, cloud, and fire, all of them evil. So is the case with impure animals, beasts, and birds. However, the animalistic soul of Israel and the animalistic soul of pure animals, beasts, and birds all come from [klipat] noga."

In the continuation there it is written:
"Rabbi Elazar said: it supports what we said above, 'that have a living soul' - these are the Jews, for they have the high and holy living soul. And the verse, 'Animals, creeping things, and beasts of the earth, each to its kind,' refers to the Gentiles, for they have no living soul, but only the prepuce, as we said above [that they stem from powers of the left side which defile them - the Sulam]."

The Germans removed the Jews from ruling over them. That is what America needs to do:

Here are some quotes from a German pamphlet titled "Why the Aryan Law?"

"In 1793 the famous philosopher Johann Gottlieb Fichte, author of "Speeches to the German Nation," wrote a pamphlet titled "A Contribution to Correcting Judgments about the French Revolution." It contained the following significant sentence:

"In nearly all the nations of Europe, a powerful, hostile government is growing, and is at war with all the others, and sometimes oppresses the people in dreadful ways: It is Jewry!"

The French Revolution, with its "ideas for the improvement of humanity" thundered past, and in the noise the people who had believed in world brotherhood entirely missed this serious warning. What Fichte warned the word about then has today become fact in nearly all the nations of the world. The Jewish people, once only tolerated, knew how to raise a hue and cry about discrimination and persecution, winning the sympathy of the world for the "poor Jews." They increasingly infiltrated deep within our national organism, growing to have power over every single area of our national life. The old saga, the "Edda," observes that one blocks a river at its source. The failure to do that was the great mistake of the German people. Thank God, it is not too late. Our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler recognized the importance of the problem for Germany's rebirth, and outlined its solution in his program.

Martin Luther wrote this of the Jews in his book "The Jews and their Lies": "They hold we Christians captive in our own land. They have seized our goods by their cursed usury, they mock and insult us because we work. They are our lords, and we and our goods belong to them." If in the coming days the Jewish race is driven out of the non-Jewish world, it will have at least this consolation: It has made clear to them for all time the value of maintaining the purity of race and blood in clear, understandable and unforgettable ways.

National Socialist racial legislation has reduced the influence of Jewry in all professions, and above all excluded them from the leading offices of the nation. That is an important step in the relationship between Germans and Jews, but one cannot ignore the fact that we have not yet fully eliminated the influence of the Jewish foreign body in German national life. It is not a question of German-Jewish coexistence, rather of making as great as possible a separation between blood and blood.
Three things are involved here:

A knowledge of the basic principles of National Socialist racial thinking,
An understanding of the growth and expansion of Jewry,
The dominant sociological position of Jewry, to show how it dominated the German people economically, intellectually and politically..."

"In discussing the Jewish Question, even today one encounters resistance and misunderstandings, especially in intellectual circles. This can only be explained by the intellectual education of the political past. This is especially evident when one discusses the fundamental issues.

Whenever a new thought arises in the world and calls people to practical action, the old world resists because it feels its foundations threatened. Its old standpoint has ruled for decades, and it looks uncomprehendingly at a new idea that does not fit into the accustomed patterns of thinking. That is natural. When the new idea and worldview are truly revolutionary, they are on a different level of human thought and feeling, and there can be no compromise. Its realization depends on people who support it, and who are ready to fight to transform the life of the individual and of the nation in every way..."

"In the long run, no idea is better suited to guarantee peace between nations than National Socialist racial thinking, which calls for the furtherance and maintenance of one's own race and one's own people, and supports similar efforts on the part of other nations..."

"The new Germany that views its own race and ethnicity positively must therefore distinguish within its territory between one race and another, between one people and another. Mixing of blood harms both sides. Race is an issue for every people if they are to live according to their nature. The German people is not so arrogant as to believe that is is the chosen people. The familiar quotation from Geibel, "The world should enjoy German ways," should be understood in the context of the dreams of world betterment of those past days.

The National Socialist racial viewpoint has clear consequences for the relationship between Germans and Jews. People have often said that National Socialism's approach to the racial question is purely negative and destructive, and that its essential characteristic is radical anti-Semitism. One must grant that we made the Jewish question clearer than anyone else, and taught an entire generation that had been taught to see all people the same to recognize the importance of the Jewish question not only for our people, but for the entire world. Our treatment of the Jewish problem in the years before we took power must be seen as the political education of the German people, which had lost its racial instincts to a dangerous degree.

The question took on its own nature in Germany, Many citizens had their eyes opened, and the simultaneous appeal to all the heroic and manly virtues of the German man resulted in a racial selection of political fighters who today stand at the head of the new state. Formerly, the Jewish question, as seen by the state, was a matter of complete equality and the unhindered immigration of Jews from the East. This is the best proof of how racial feeling and consciousness had been lost. Our tone was not purely negative or the simple rejection of others, rather the emphasis was on the positive values of our own people. This does require noting that Jewry through its Marxist class struggle leadership role and its international financial measures aimed at Germany supported every kind of anti-national action in the cultural and political fields. Jewry should not complain if its anti-German activities, which have no counterpart in any other country, call forth from the people the defensive reaction of anti-Semitism.

The starting point of the discussion is the scientific fact that the Jew is different than the German. This is neither arrogant nor boastful, it simply is the way things are. For us, the Jewish question is a question between two peoples. Its characteristics are determined by the racially determined differences between the two, and through the unusual sociological and numerical development of Jewry in the course of its history, developments that are particularly evident in the last decades through a constantly growing process of foreign infiltration that has reached an intolerable level for the German people.

More than once over its history, the German people has absorbed foreign elements, but they were racially identical or similar population groups, as for example was the case with the Huguenots. With the Jews, things are fundamentally different. They are seen everywhere as foreigners, and see themselves that way as well. Walter Rathenau said it most clearly as early as 1897: "How strange! In the middle of German life there is a separate, foreign tribe that stands out in every way with its hot-tempered behavior. An Asiatic horde has settled on the sands of Mark Brandenburg." Einstein said something in 1931: "I have to laugh when I hear the phrase 'German citizen of the Jewish faith.' These citizens first of all want nothing to do with my poor Eastern European brothers, and second do not want to be sons of my (Jewish) people, but only members of the Jewish cultural community. Is that honest? Can a non-Jew respect such people? I am not a German citizen. I am a Jew, and am happy to belong to the Jewish people."

The most remarkable thing about Jewry is that it has not disappeared over the millennia, even though it lacks its own territory and language. Even more remarkable is that it lacks the main characteristic of a minority population, its own pockets of settlement to which it could if necessary retreat. Only time will tell if Palestine will someday fill this gap. That question is made more difficult by the fact that the Arabs maintain their claim on Palestine. Whatever the twists of history, the Jew has always remained the same, whether as a grain speculator in ancient Rome or as a bank or stock exchange potentate in the modern era. They were always able to control the wealth of whole nations. Nations and peoples once their contemporaries have vanished, leaving only words and crumbled monuments behind; only the Jew remains. In ancient days we see him carrying on his business in the trading centers of the Mediterranean. In the Middle Ages he provided money for German nobles and free cities. Today he rules the banks and stock exchanges of the whole world, forcing the nations under the yoke of financial capitalism. The power of this people of 15 million rests on these international relations. This is how they seem to fulfill the commandment of Jehovah - the world domination of the chosen people.
The secret of the Jewish people, which has enabled them to survive through all of history's twists and turns, is that it has always recognized the laws of blood, even anchoring them in the laws of its religion. The consciousness of blood and family that believing Jews have has been stronger than all the other forces of history, giving us a unique example of a people without its own land and language, which still meets the criteria for being a people, and which has outlasted many other peoples.

This historic manifestation of Jewry, which is unique, brings to the fore the question of the relationship between the host and guest peoples. It has been answered in differing ways throughout history, depending on the worldview and thinking then predominant.
Since the Jews were dispersed they have been held together by the laws of their religion and their faith that they were the chosen people. Until the middle of the 18th Century, Germans and Jews lived apart from each other. The Jews had no opportunity to become involved in the religious of political-intellectual life of their host people. On the other hand, they could practice their own customs without interference. They had their own religion and their own laws. During the Middle Ages, the Ghetto was the way Jewry could maintain itself in the midst of other peoples and fulfill its Jewish duties, which grew out of its race, origins and laws. The values and ideals of other peoples were not affected. This separation was only possible because the views of the host people were as strong as those of the Jews. According to the writer Grau: "There was no racial defilement or baptism, no attempt to join a nation that one could never be a member of, and no attempt to intellectually silence the host people." In the Ghetto of the Middle Ages, the Jew developed his nature and characteristics, which were later to become significant, while maintaining the community of blood and race. The latter is particularly important, since the strict physical separation between the host and guest peoples maintained the foreign nature that we daily see so clearly, now that the barriers between have long since fallen.

Even in the Middle Ages, the most important thing was not the difference between the Christian and Mosaic faiths. Rather, there was on the one hand the natural sense that the Jew was of a foreign race, and on the other hand the strict law of blood which demanded a clear separation if the Jews were to fulfill Jehovah's mission, which had guided them from the beginning. Just this has always been kept in the background by historians, who present the Ghetto as a tolerated asylum for Jewish martyrs persecuted on account of their faith. There is a gap to be filled here. The task of historians writing from our new viewpoint will be to examine the portrait of the Ghetto of the Middle Ages to discover its importance for the development of Jewry and the relationship between the guest and host peoples. Even the Jewish side is demanding that. O. Karbach criticizes historical writing because it "in significant ways conceals the historical fact that the Jews in the centuries before their emancipation possessed a legal standing that was better than the greater part of the rest of the population, namely complete or partial agricultural freedom. (Ordnung in der Judenfrage, edited by E. Czermak, Reinhold, Vienna, 1933).

The barriers between Germans and Jews fell as a result of the Enlightenment and the French Revolution. The path to Jewish world domination would take a different direction than pious, observant Jews had expected. Emancipation made it possible to build Jewish dominance through secular means. With the disappearance of racial consciousness, only religious differences seemed to remain. It seemed at the time unjust to give someone a preferred position only because of his religious beliefs, which are an entirely personal matter. At the time, this was tied to a belief in human equality and freedom. It was revolutionary. It shattered the church dogmas that had ruled for centuries and was the foundation of liberal thinking during the last two hundred years. The new goal was humanity itself, and nothing stood in the way of racial mixing. Some had the quiet hope that assimilation would mean the absorption of Jewry. Jewry itself, however, was more than willing to use the opportunities of religious assimilation, which opened the path to all important positions, even to political leadership. As H. Heine said, "baptism was the ticket to European culture." Gradually, an intermixing with the German people developed, particularly in its cultural elite. Foreign blood infiltrated to a degree that we realize only today now that the "Law to Reestablish a Professional Bureaucracy" has exposed numerous sources of foreign blood. This process has greatly accelerated during the last fourteen years.

Today the age of raceless thinking is being displaced by the ideals of human variability. Values are rooted in origin and territory, and each group has a historic mission based on its own unique and eternal values. Such new racial thinking will of course secure the opposition of those who either through faith or reason still believe in the unity of humanity in culture, social order and organization. The Jews will naturally oppose any discussion of race, since the denial of any significant differences between people is the foundation of his infiltration of Western European society. The Jew finds any mention of the racial question as an attack on his current existence. His leading role in every anti-national area is characteristic of his mimicry, and is necessary for his continued existence. That explains the phrase "German citizen of the Jewish faith."

The recognition that the Jew is of a foreign and different race along with the reawakening of German racial consciousness must necessarily lead to a change in the relations between Germans and Jews.

There is one point to keep in mind before examining the statistics. Only those people who claimed to be Jews and were members of the Mosaic faith were counted as Jews, not those who for internal or external reasons belonged to another religion, or those who claimed to be dissident Jews and therefore did not belong to the standard groups. This is regrettable for our purposes, since we are interested not in the influence of those who still claimed the Jewish religion, rather those who belonged to the Jewish race! That includes all Jews, whether of the Mosaic faith or baptized Christians. That is just what the supporters of the Talmud and the Old Testament always said. They complained that the state opened all offices to those "without character," to "Christmas Jews," even admitting them to the officer corps! The statistics given here must therefore be increased significantly. The Jews are a race, and baptism does not in any way change the foreign characteristics that are hostile to the German people..."

Of course, the intellectual atmosphere that enabled the Jew to infiltrate the German body politic quickly led the Jew himself to see that conditions for his advancement were favorable, and that the way to the top was open. He also realized what the population statistics meant, indeed they were particularly clear to him, since 2/3 of his kind lived in the big cities, the centers of the liberal worldview..."

"Nothing shows the differences between our people and the Jews more clearly than their likes and dislikes for certain occupations. In some occupations, particularly those that are most important for the nation as a whole, the foreign influence on German life has reached an intolerable extent not seen elsewhere in Europe. The preference for certain occupations also gives us an interesting insight into the spiritual nature of Jewry.

The following figures show how much critical occupations in Germany have been infiltrated.

112,188 Jews, or 58.8%, far more than half, are employed in the area of "commerce and transportation, including restaurants and taverns," but only 17.11% (3,248,145) of the population as a whole. In the area of "industry and craft work, including mining and construction," 19,318 Jews (25.85%) were employed, including 31.82% of foreigners. For the population as a whole, the figure was 40.94% (7,771,799).

The figures in the field of "public administration, the judiciary, the army and navy, churches, legal professionals and the independent professions." 11,324 Jews were employed there, or 5.94% , over against 921,048 (4.85%) in the general population..."
In 1925, 0.81% of Jews were active as civil servants and the army and navy, as opposed to 2.3% of the general population. In the church, religious occupations, the legal system and the other independent professions, the Jewish percentage is 4.3% as opposed to 2% of the general population. This shows that the Jews are over-represented when compared to the general population, particularly in the independent professions.

The percentage of the Jewish population in government positions may seem less than that of the general population, but the difference is not as great as the figures first suggest. The most recent figures, not yet entirely complete, suggest that a not insignificant number of them are baptized Jews or dissidents formerly of the Jewish faith who denied their Jewishness to gain an official position.

4.35% of Jews are employed in the medical and health care system, including welfare, and 2.0% of foreign Jews. The figure for the general population is 1.88%. The Jewish percentage is thus 2 1/2 times as high as that of the general population.

In summary, Jewish occupational patterns differ from those of the rest of the population. Jewry seems to have an aversion to agricultural work, industrial labor and crafts. They are greatly over-represented in commerce and transportation, including the entire banking system. They are also over-represented in the independent professions and the health care system. These figures alone demonstrate a clear difference between the native German population and alien Jewry.

Very similar conditions prevail in all Western European nations and also in North America, since Jews have spread throughout the world in areas with growing industry and in cities that are centers of economic and financial power. It is not true, as is often claimed, that the Jew was systematically forced into commerce by the laws of the various nations; rather, commerce particularly suits the Jew's nature. This is supported by Dr. Arthur Ruppin, a scholar respected by the Jews. He writes in his book The Jews of the Present (2nd edition, Cologne and Leipzig, 1911, p. 45):

"Thanks to their significant commercial gifts (!), the Jews soon enjoyed great success in commerce and industry. For 2000 years they have seemed predestined to work in commerce. It is false to claim, as some do, that Jews became merchants primarily because the Christians denied them other occupations during the Middle Ages. The Jews did not become merchants in Europe, rather they entered the profession in growing numbers ever since the Babylonian Captivity in Syria, Egypt and Babylon [because they dislike labor and prefer to have others work for them! The Editor]. In Palestine until the dispersion they did live primarily by agriculture. In the Diaspora, there was hardly anywhere that the Jews lived by agriculture. The Middle Ages did not make them into merchants. It only affirmed legally that which history had already established. It is after all the rule that economic laws generally do not create new conditions, but only legalize and regulate that which already exists. The law would never have limited the Jews to commerce in Europe if they had not already immigrated primarily as merchants..."

Nearly all national economists agree that the Jews owe their role as merchants not to chance, but to their excellent abilities as merchants. As W. Sombart wrote: "The Jewish race is by nature the incarnation of the capitalism-mercantile spirit." (Der moderne Kapitalismus, Vol. 2, p. 349. Leipzig, 1902). Many others agree..."

"Similarly differences in the relative proportion of Jews by the self-employed are evident in the medical field, which employs 0.5% of the general population but 2.8% of the Jews, nearly six times as many.

Similar statistics are found in the cultural area (theater, film, radio, education, teaching, etc.). The 0.4% of the general population are employed there, 2.6% of the Jews, also about six times as many.

In the area of public administration and the judiciary, the percentage of Jews in high positions is 2.0%, over against 1.3% of the general population, nearly twice as high. The significance of these figures becomes clear that when one realizes that the 2.3% of professional Jews in public administration and the judiciary are in a branch where the Jewish percentage of employees is only 0.81%. That means that the Jews are especially represented in the important positions that influence the whole government and leading branches of the economy.."

"The statistics may be interesting. The Jewish workers included 11,406 in industry, 2,220 in commerce and transportation, and 726 in agriculture.
The following figures show most clearly the different social structure of Jewry in Prussia over against the general population, and reveal clearly Jewry's leading role in public life:.."

"On 19 May 1933 Reich Chancellor Adolf Hitler gave an interview to Bernard Ridder, an American journalist for the New York State Newspaper. Discussing the Jewish Question in Germany, he said: "Should I allow thousands of German-blooded people to be destroyed so that the Jews can live and work in luxury while millions starve, falling victim to Bolshevism out of desperation?"

Can the justice of his words be doubted when one recalls that, according to the Prussian census of 16 June 1925 6.9% of all independent pharmacists, 17.9% of all independent physicians, 4.8% of all independent artists, 27% of all independent attorneys, 4.6% of editors, 11% of theater directors, 7.5% of actors, and 14.8% of all independent dentists were Jews! And these huge figures when the Jews were only 1% of the population! Is that anything other than a Jewdification of our entire cultural system?! And what would these figures look like if one had had the ability to include baptized Jews and dissidents?..."

"Berlin is the Jewish metropolis in Germany. The process of Jewdification is considerably further along. That is understandable, since one is in the immediate vicinity of the protective arms of democracy and social democracy, where developments can occur unhindered. Thus in Berlin on 16 June 1925 32.2% of the pharmacists were Jews, as were 49.9% of the physicians, 7.5 of the graphic artists, 50.2% of the attorneys, 8.5% of the editors, 14.2% of the directors and theater heads, 12.3% of the actors and 37.5% of the dentists.

These figures cry out for legal limitations on Jewry, and it is surprising that former governments did not take the appropriate action to tell the Jews "this far and no further."
The Jewish influence gave the rest of the world an entirely false impression of the nature of the German people. Inside the Reich, they poisoned the soul of the people, and all social and political relationships. Until the national uprising, the leaders of the National Socialist movement were persecuted, defamed and suppressed by a system that was a willing tool in the hands of a foreign and different race. The national revolution freed the German people from this foreign influence, which had also dominated and ruined the German press and public life in significant ways.
He who wants to understand the German revolution of 1933 must understand that it had this goal: 'Germany must be governed by Germans for Germans.' The central idea of the National Socialist revolution was the longing of the German people to once more be master in every area of its own life. As a great, confident people, we demand only this of the other peoples: that they permit us, as their equals, to govern ourselves as we wish and find our own way to happiness (Reich Minister of the Interior Dr. Frick)..."

"The Jewdification of our colleges and universities over the years has reached almost frightening proportions. We begin with a publication from 1931. Karl Hoppmann, in his volume "On the State of Jewdification in the Academic professions" found the following figures:

1. University of Berlin:
Medical faculty . . . . over 50%
Philosophical faculty 25%

2. University of Gï¿½ttingen, 32% of the professors were Jewish:
Legal Faculty 47.0%
Medical faculty 34.0%
Philosophical faculty 40.0%
Mathematics and Natural Sciences . . . 23.0%
3. University of Breslau
Legal Faculty 30.0%
Medical faculty 37.0%
Philosophical faculty 25.0%
4. University of Frankfurt (Main)
Legal Faculty 55.0%
Philosophical faculty 14.0%
Mathematics and Natural Sciences . . . 28.0%
Medical faculty 21.0%
Economics 28.0%

Jewry has a dominating role on the stock exchange. The board of the Berlin stock exchange is almost exclusively Jewish. In the various committees, the percentage of the Jewish race is sometimes many times as high as the Aryan. The committees include:
That means that 117 or 147 members are Jews, or nearly 80%.
The extent of the Jewdification of German theater and film is evident from 1931 figures. Of 234 theater directors, 118 (50.4%) were Jews, 92 (39.3%) were non-Jewish.
Berlin led in this area as well, with 23 of 29 theater directors (80%) Jewish.
The situation in film is similar. The Viennese Catholic periodical "Schï¿½nere Zukunft," which certainly cannot be accused of anti-Semitism, wrote the following in its 3 February 1929 issue:

"The percentage of Jewry in today's film industry is so high, at least by us in Germany, that there is only a tiny part left for Christian firms."

Jewry has long sought political influence as well. This formerly happened in covert ways, mostly through direct or indirect control of money matters. Nearly every noble once had his financial Jew. Since 1848, the birth of political parties in Germany, Jewry has openly sought to become a political power. The Jew Marx was the founder of Marxist doctrine, the Jew Lassalle was the founder of the Social Democratic Party. The founders of the Independent Social Democratic Party of Germany were the Jews Bernstein, Haase, Kautsky, Hilferding, Cohn, Davidsohn, Simon, Rosenfeld, Eisner, Levi, etc. Carl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemberg were the leaders of the Communist Party, and recently the Jews Rosenfeld and Seydewitz founded the Socialist Workers Party. Jews sat in the press offices and the various editorial offices of party newspapers, and above all in the various parliamentary factions..."

"We think it necessary to mention that the Communist wave that threatened to destroy Germany politically, economically and intellectually can primarily be traced back to Jewry.

Is it any wonder that the Jew is arrogant? The greater the Jewish influence the more secure they feel, and the more ominously and clearly their character and goals becomes clear: Pride, intolerance and superiority on the one hand, a drive for world domination on the other. Several pointed Jewish statements are examples:

Hochmut: The familiar "Dorfgeschichte"-Auerbach says: "We Jews are the most intelligent race." "We are the chosen ones," says Dr. Berhard Cohn (Jï¿½disch-Politische Streitfragen, 20, 22). He continues: "We may carry our head high and demand particular respect. We must not only be treated equally, but better. We deserve the particular respect of other peoples."

Rabbi Dr. Rulf wrote a book ("Aruchas bar-Ammni," Israel's Healing, Frankfurt a. M. 1883) in which he says: "The Jewish people is a blessing for all peoples. The blessing has followed on the heels of the Jews. A whole world lives from the Jews, who feed everyone, and everywhere spread wealth and pleasure, comfort and prosperity. Only the commerce of the Jews creates value. Work alone does not do that. Half of the world's population would starve without the Jews."

The Jew Dr. Duschak wrote: "The world could not exist without the Jews." The well-known Jew Sacher-Masoch explained the hatred of anti-Semites against the Jews in this way: It is the same hatred a Negro feels against the whites because of their superiority.
That the Jews even went so far as to suggest to Bismark that he make the Jewish Day of Atonement a national holiday is certainly no sign of modesty.

Intolerance: The Jew Klausner (Society, edited by Conrad, Volume 12) wrote: "Anti-Semitism and criminality are nearly the same thing. There are criminals who were not anti-Semites, but no anti-Semites who were not criminals."

The work by Dr. E. Fuchs. "The Future of the Jews," (Berlin, Philo-Verlag, 1924) judges our greatest historians, Hartmann and Treitschke, who see the Jews as our misfortune: "Men blinded by prejudice and hatred. Small, tiny men."

World Domination: The Jewish attorney Maurthner in Vienna said back in the 1880's: "It is not just a matter of fighting anti-Semitism. We want to oppose it with Jewish domination!"

They made the attempt. If the German people had not recovered their senses at the last moment, and if they had not had a Fuehrer and Chancellor named Adolf Hitler who recognized the danger and woke the German people, we would have fallen into slavery. As we have already noted, the Jew has always known how to rouse sympathy when things were rough for him. Consider this report from the meeting of the PEN Club in Ragusa at the end of May of last year: "Schalom Asch in his keynote address noted that the suffering of the Jews in Germany had aroused the sympathy of the entire world. Only the German government remained untouched. He claimed the Jews has given Germany its deepest thoughts, its most beautiful songs, its greatest poets, artists and philosophers. Today one had crucified them in Germany and covered them with their own blood." Mr. Schalom Asch began crying in the midst of these outrageous lies. He spoke in the hope that his words would be heard for the sake of justice and humanity throughout the world. The Jew Asch cries! The German people are not moved. They want no torture or persecution, but also no unjustified sympathy, only justice! Remember always the worlds of Field Marshall Moltke: "The Jew is a state within the state." Remember also the works of our great historian Mommsen: "In antiquity too the Jew was the ferment of cosmopolitanism and national decomposition." And remember Goethe: "The Israelites have never done much; they possess few virtues, and most of the deficiencies of other peoples!"

The Racial Question has an important role in the laws of other nations, though other peoples and races are affected than in the German Reich. It is in no way new or unusual that the German Reich is active in this area. Contrary to opinions that surface here and there, our laws are in no way directed against the Jewish religion, its practice, or the freedom of the Jewish faith.

The German Reich has done nothing but introduce constitutional legislation to provide the kind of civil service necessary to guarantee the secure administration of the Reich. The laws do not render it impossible for a citizen of a foreign state to become a civil servant. Indeed, if he is appointed to such a position, he receives full citizenship in the Reich. German civil servants should however be of Aryan descent. The so-called Aryan Law requires that each civil servant be of German blood. Since the vast majority of non-Aryan civil servants were Jews, the first guidelines to the law paid particular attention to those who were members of the Jewish race. But we did not simply throw out the non-Aryan civil servants, but retired them with honor and a pension. The people's state could hardly proceed in a more legal and mild manner. Germany did not want to attack Jewry wildly, rather only deal with its results, is clear from the fact that the Law of 7 April 1933 left untouched all non-Aryan civil servants who had been appointed before 1 August 1914, and by the fact that the private sphere not affected. Some complain that the law extends to half and quarter Aryans. The answer is that the foreign influence in the civil service had grown to such a dangerous extent that it was almost impossible for young Germans to enter these professions." (Reich Minister of the Interior Dr. Frick..."

Their collective judgements put Bush and Obama in the White house.
That is because the Jews control the media:

There was a book in ordinary bookstores called "An Empire of Their Own". It was a pro-Jewish book but it showed that the Jews ran Hollywood.

Here are some quotes from a magazine for Jews called "Moment".
It is subtitled "The Jewish magazine for the 90's" These quotes are from the Aug 1996 edition after the Headline "Jews Run Hollywood - So What?":

"It makes no sense at all to try to deny the reality of Jewish power and prominence in popular culture. Any list of the most influential production executives at each of the major movie studios will produce a heavy majority of recognizably Jewish names."

"the famous Disney organization, which was founded by Walt Disney, a gentile Midwesterner who allegedly harbored anti-Semetic attitudes, now features Jewish personnel in nearly all its most powerful positions."

"When Matsushita took over MCA-Universal, they did nothing to undermine the unquestioned authority of Universal's legendary - and all Jewish - management triad of Lew Wasserman, Sid Scheinberg, and Tom Pollack."

The Holocaust Cowing and Milking of Nations By Alex Linder

'Holocaust': The Means by Which the Richest Group in the World Contrives to Cow and Milk the Rest of the Us in the Guise of Victims who are Persecuted and Due Eternal Restitution.

Reading through a thousand blog reactions to Duke v Blitzer on CNN, a generalization crystallizes. People confuse being told something six million times with knowing something. They are not the same. "It ain't what you don't know, it's what you know that just ain't so." The average man 'knows' the Holocaust exists because:

1) everybody uses the term;
2) he has seen photos of stacked bodies;
3) he has read Anne Frank's book;
4) authorities agree that questioning any of this is 'hate.'

In other words, the average man believes in the Holocaust for no logical reason, but out of simple mammalian conformity.
'Holocaust' is a loaded, dishonest term. You can't debate with undefined terms without making a joke of yourself, but the average man does not realize this. It is the part of public school, reinforced by mass media, to disable his thinking so that he's worse positioned to defend himself because he can't understand how he is manipulated to accept the illogical. Debate in the mass media of a democracy is nothing but the shuffling of loaded terms.

'Holocaust' is no ordinary noun. Rather, it is a loaded gun leveled at the head of the West and the rest. Give them their money and their pride of place or get your head and reputation blown off. You will notice that never, ever does debate in the captive media condescend to deconstruct the Zionist Privilege embodied in and sanctified by the designer label 'Holocaust.' Worship the Zionists and submit to their demands - that is what the term Holocaust means.

A demand for special privilege protected by a shell of pseudo-history; that is an objective description of the term. The heart of the 'Holocaust,' taking at face value the term's pretension to historical designation, is the claim that six million Jews were murdered by Nazi Germany, most of them by gassing. The evidence for the gassing is never discussed. Photos of crematories and bodies stacked like cord wood are shown. No context or explanation of the reason for showing them is given. The connection is to be assumed. But never is any ordinary evidence, let alone proof, of the gassing allegation advanced. That Jews were gassed is treated as though it were already proved and therefore unquestionable, save by the depraved. Thus, the practical job of the media and the well intentioned everyman is to smear and ostracize anybody who argues against settled truth. We all know that Jews were gassed, and that those who say otherwise are deniers driven by hate. But it ain't so just because "everybody knows" it is.

We are told repeatedly that the 'Holocaust' is both the worst thing that ever happened and the best documented thing in human history. We are to take these assertions on authority, since no genuine debate is allowed.

There are men who can prove the 'Holocaust' is a Big Lie. You can find them in jail. Their imprisonment is scarcely mentioned in the mass media. Their imprisonment goes unlamented by the mass columnists. To discuss these men and their work would endanger the Propa-sphere the media construct. They must disappear. But we know, mass media. And we're not going away. We're getting louder and stronger. And there's nothing you can do to stop us.

Not treason, plain old bribery and corruption. You have to have a War for real treason, and we ain't had a legal state of War since late August, 1945.

Dave, Dave, Dave...when will you ever learn NOT to keep changing thread titles?

It's NOT cute.

It's NOT clever.

It IS bad netiquette.

It IS lazy.

It IS very RUDE.

Why not leave the tile the same and just type your response in the body of the post?

On the other hand, if you wish to have people think of you as being rude (i.e., shooting yourself in the foot), that's your choice.

Not trying to start a flame war, just my 2 cents...

There are a lot of things wrong with Ron Paul - but being the same as Bush/Obama isn't one of them.

Well, what can one do?

Scratch...

If I think about a situation, where government and certain helpers try to defeat the rest of the world, that rest should take care of those, that threaten them.

In a democracy the people decide and not a certain group, however defined.

The people threatened should make perfectly clear, they would be after those, that commit crimes or that help other to commit crimes.

Any threatening of regular citizens is regarded as crime and will be prosecuted. Theft, rape, torture and murder are also crimes - of course
- and nobody committing any will get away with this.

Possibly the current powers would win a fight or a war, but people have long memories and will not forget and will take care of those, that commited crimes.

The other question would be, if it is necessary to allow any subgroup of a society to harass, threaten or even kill another subgroup. That sounds like a question of power.

At first sight I would say, crimes commited by the government under fraudulent laws are still crimes and nobody should consider taking part in such lawless activities. The officials of all kinds must remember their constitution and the oath they have given and never ever allow or support atrocities against their own countrymen.

But if things go really bad, than it would be mandatory to calm down, identify the enemy and take them out. This would be measure of last resort of course, so peaceful habits should be preferred.

For once the nitwits in Kongress got it right. The omnibus bill passed Fri killed the stupid CFL bulb they were trying to cram down out throats. If only they'd had some balls before they crammed the stupid digital tv system down our throats 2 years ago.

Hmmm, well, I am past caring, I went all cheap CFL's from the dollar store and a couple of daylight quality ones in important places, reading, plants, etc.

Now, going to LEDs ... my bill has dropped a noticeable amount ...

But, no law is really necessary, just the energy savings is going to move people off of incandescent bulbs, quick enough ...

I will agree with you on one point, it was necessary to get the wealth back from the jews and redistribute those resources to the german people and all citizens there ... hitler just went about it the wrong way -- had he done it correctly, he might even be a hero in history books ... I mean, simply, there is always room for a new Robin Hood!

I don't believe the president has signed anything yet. Also, there were differences in the Senate bill--will need to have a conference to 'iron-out' differences.

Here is an example of a 10W high power LED ... there are many available, in differing wattage, on ebay ...

These and some drivers, or wire up your own, and the change to LED lighting is cheap, in the long run.

Do-it-yourself-ers only need apply ...

USA distribution sources are available there also ... but hey, this is another one of those things which Americans find is unworkable ... so perhaps the Chinese should be rewarded here ...

Why is George Bush's CFL law "stupid"? (you do realize that the CFL bill was signed into law by George W. Bush).

Next, you do realize that CFLs are are win-win-win situation.

1) They use one quarter the energy of incandescent bulbs, thus reducing YOUR lighting bill to one quarter of what it was.

2) At the generating station end, CFL usage causes the power plants to emit one quarter of the mercury into the atmosphere compared to incandescent usage.

3) The CFLs use less electricity compared to incandescent, thus significantly reducing our dependence on foreign oil (if most lighting was switched over to CFLs).

So, tell us again which of the above three points you are against.

Sorry to bust your bubble, but in American the crime of treason is not defined by merriam-webster but by The Constitution of the United States of America, specifically Article 3, Section 3.

That depends on exactly what the term "levying War against [the United States]" is determined to mean.

That could certainly happen without a declration of war on the part of the US; whether it can mean acts taken by individuals or non-nation groups is another question.

"The question of impeachment turns on the meaning of the phrase in the Constitution at Art. II Sec. 4, "Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors". I have carefully researched the origin of the phrase "high crimes and misdemeanors" and its meaning to the Framers, and found that the key to understanding it is the word "high". It does not mean "more serious". It refers to those punishable offenses that only apply to high persons, that is, to public officials, those who, because of their official status, are under special obligations that ordinary persons are not under, and which could not be meaningfully applied or justly punished if committed by ordinary persons."

The rest of the world would have been under a world dictatorship a long time ago. it would then have been us against the whole world and we would have probably fell and found ourselves also under the dictatorship.

1) Yes, as a matter of fact I do DX near CFLs -- and I have no problems with numerous CFLs and four foot fluorescent tubes in the ham shack.

2) In any event, with 700,000 hams out of a population of 300 million, that's only .2% that are hams. Again, the savings in the use of foreign oil, the reduction in mercury emissions that we ALL breathe and the savings in YOUR electric lighting bill would seem to offset the fraction of the .2% that are hams that DX. It seems you would like to have the tail wag the dog...and to me, that's stupid.

It has been clinically proven that florescent lighting causes psychological problems for many people. Autistic and Asperger syndrome individuals are particularly vulnerable because they can actually see the flicker rate of the bulbs which causes excruciating migraine headaches. Thank goodness these poor folks have been given a reprieve.

After all, that is also being an "interventionist"...

Actually, no. Almost all electricity in the US is provided by other means, mostly coal.

Foreign oil is less than 25% of the oil consumed in the US, so because more than 50% of the energy needs of the US are povided by coal, reducing the amount of electricity used won't do much to about foreign oil.

If you want to reduce polution, CFLs would help there, but if you want to reduce the foreign oil usage, drive less.

The next time a candidate for President says that if he is elected he will bankrupt the coal industry, pay attention before you vote for him.

Korea would be a much better area to combat the type of thing you mention, however, they have no resources of value for the criminals to steal ...

No, the puppet masters who own and run, illegally, our public servants have their agenda, they simply attempt to hide in under guises of national security and "helping" other nations ... the fact that these tactics of deceit and deception have worked so well, I just chalk up to easily fooled morons ...

Another problem is our nanny role with Israel, a country who now needs to stand on its' own, or find a place where they are wanted ... or else you can pay for it ...

If we leave Iraqi, really leave, I think that our crooked public servants and their puppet masters must feel they have the theft of that countries natural resources pretty well mastered and controlled. They must have "their men" in strategic positions to assist them in the manipulation of oil, its' supply and its' prices, so that they can manage them from here ... else, they will be using OUR military to support their crimes ...

It seems there is at least one type of mental illness, and possibly a whole range of them, where everything is clinically proven to worsen/cause their condition, or the worsening of that/those condition(s.)

After obama, it would seem logical to consider shooting the next one ... a prison cell would take care of obama -- and there are numerous reasons for such actions!

While true, obama is no worse than any of the crooked presidents, beginning with nixon, and including ALL of them since ... these crooks are getting old, and our wallets and standard of living unable to afford more of them.

That's not the fault of LEDs. LEDs like flourecent lights produce light in a few different colors. Combining those colors into what you see as white is done in your brain, and the proportion of those colors affects what you see it as.

More blue and it looks like the daytime sky (hence the floursecent lamps called daylight) and more red looks like fire light (hence the flourescent lamps called warm white).

Early CFLs (around 15 years ago, when I first got them) were all daylight and produced harsh unusable light. I could only use them outdoors and in windowless rooms where cheap was more important than color.

Now it is easy to get warm CFLs and they are much more agreeable than the old blue/green heavy ones the past.

LEDs will also move in that direction as people demand them.

Note that the color affects the way people think, and cool lights make them more "edgy" which is good if you want people to work harder. Warm lights make people feel more comfortable and mellow, which is better for homes, etc.

I never have liked "warm white", always preferred "cool white" and now that daylight bulbs are just as cheap, I prefer them also, so does the wife ... and the dim-able fluorescent are nice for room lighting.

Have never noticed light really affecting my mood, or anyone else, for that matter, but I know people with mental problems are having all sorts of people attempt to manipulate them with light, colors, food, drugs, etc. -- any prison or mental hospital and you will find examples ...

All I notice is others home appear dim to me, when bathed in warm white ...

I personally would never consider using incandescent bulbs again. I switched to CFL bulbs a long time ago. I can't really even remember the last time I had to replace one. They last soooo much longer! They do not generate any (ANY) RFI, even when they're in close proximity to your radio gear. The law can say anything it likes so far as I'm concerned....just so long as it doesn't make it harder for me to get CFL bulbs!

PUH-LEEZE don't use ANYTHING Bush did as any argument "in-favor." I could list you MANY reasons if freedom of speech existed anymore.

If you are even able to see that much of a difference on your electric bill YOU ARE LEAVING TOO DAMN MANY LIGHTS ON in your house. Why don't you turn a light off when you leave the room?

You get the leaders talking out of both sides of their mouths about "going green" to cut down on THEIR OWN usage and then we'll debate.

Actually, you can buy a watt meter at lowes, homedepot or most any hardware store near you, plug in a 100w incandescent, do your measurements, plug in a fluorescent, do your measurements ... then compute costs based on the price of electricity per/KW on your bill ...

We have also put everything on timers to avoid hitting peak times, we basically "go dark" at peak and then back on after ... wife does laundry, run dishwasher, showers, etc., always off peak times ...

If you don't think you can make one hell of a dent in your power bill, think again, and fluorescent/LEDs are a part of that difference ... unless you live in a tent and use but a single light bulb ...

Also, we have split our appliance between natural gas and electricity, so we never exceed the allotted cubic feet and KW/hrs. Of course, if I worked for the power company, I might advise others to use more. lol

JS

Well, the first/cheap fluorescent were a real RFI problem for me, proper filters on my lines cut this to acceptable ... however, these days the new RFI have to be very close to my am radio for the noise to be picked up by its' ferrite loopstick. Seems to me they have "fixed" the problem, least as far as I am concerned ... but then, I am still running the filters on my lines because the wife just loves room light dimmers ... these were always my biggest RFI problem ... probably should look to see if there are quieter ones available ...

My post wasn't a DEAD GIVEAWAY I got it?

Perhaps you need to reexamine it ... I see your satire detector is

I use several CFLs in places that need to be on almost the entire day, from 5am until 2am, for example in a windowless bathroom. I don't bother with a timer, I just use an 8w CFL, which is enough to do most things you would do in a bathroom. When you want more light, there is a two 40w floursecent fixture which gets turned on and off as needed.

I also put two 28 watt warm CFLs in a hallway that was "dark and dirty" (or it looked that way, it really was clean) because it was unlit. They are on (manually) from around 6:30am until 1am. It really changes the look of the place and since there is light I put some house plants on top of a cabinet near one of the lights. I could of done the same thing with 2 100 Watt or 4 60 Watt incandescent bulbs, but the cost of the fixtures would of been a lot higher, and the operating cost prohibative.

So instead of a dark "pit" which is ignored, it has become the center of the apartment when you walk in the door and you see a warm, comforting light and green plants.

If you need incandescent light for reading, you can always buy small spot beams which don't light (and warm) the rest of the room up.

I do find that flourescent lights in general are not as good for close work or reading, so I often have to use more of them than the usual stated amounts. For example, I have two 2x40 Watt fixtures in the kitchen, a 28 Watt fixture over the sink, and a 12 Watt CFL in the ceiling fan, which is used to light the room when it is not in use (so you can see how to get around).

That would be the equivalent of over 1KW of incandescent lighting, which would not only be too expensive to run, but would produce enough heat
I could cook things right on the table. :-)

Only reason I mentioned Bush is that many people here have been blaming the "CFL law" on Obama, patently un-true. Just wanted to place credit (or blame) where it is due -- on W.

First of all, I DO turn off lights when I leave the room. And the bottom line is that CFLs use ONE QUARTER of the power that incandescent uses. So, no matter how many or how few lights you use or turn off, your lighting bill will STILL be one quarter.

> You get the leaders talking out of both sides of their mouths about

Huh? What's to "debate"? Why should what a "leader's" electric bill is have anything at all to do with ME using one fourth of the electricity on MY bill.

Congratulations! You're still doing a fine job of dodging and tap dancing -- but still avoiding the undisputable fact that, for the same light output, CFLs use ONE FOURTH the electricity (no matter what anyone else does) and puts one fourth of the mercury into the air at the power plant.

I can tell you give some thought to use, purpose and goals. This type of logic works well with light and ones power bill ... but, it is a good model for all other endeavors in life ... I'll bet it has severed you well.

Yes, very much in agreement with you ... I have even switched out my flashlight bulbs for tactical LED ones, of the type used in the modern Maglites ... not only is battery life increased, but the light is brighter and provides more detail of objects illuminated ...

Messrs. BS (Bryant&Smith) are both wrong per usual. My post is a sincere expression of sympathy for the North Korean people and personal grief, indeed despair. I would suggest each of you visit http://usmlo.org/ for re-education and deprogramming, but I fear you are both intellectually damaged beyond repair. Victims of the Western imperialist "education" system of indoctrination. How sad.

Now if you will excuse me I must retire to my study for an enjoyable, and extremely enlightening, evening of listening to the Voice of Korea from Pyongyang which shines as a beacon of truth in a world of mendacity.

You make an excellent point, when I was younger, I could almost read a newspaper in the dark of night ...

I think as you get older, you will appreciate the daylight bulb for work
... wife uses them for knitting, quilting and crochet -- to the exclusion of any and all others ... I have made a high power blue white LED light attached to her sewing machine, she also likes it ...

In statism lies the certainty of stagnation.
It's too late to change things with mere dreams and talk.

"The U.S. government and monopoly media have been working non-stop since the untimely death of Kim Jong Il, leader of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) to promote doubt about the DPRK and pursue its warmongering by presenting the DPRK as an aggressor. At a time with the people of the DPRK and all Koreans are in mourning, the U.S. expresses no sympathy but rather continues its hostile stands. We urge everyone to reject this war mongering and stand with the Korean people in their time of great grief."

"The fact of the matter is, unlike the U.S., which still has occupation troops in both south Korea and Japan, and has nuclear warships in the region, the DPRK has never invaded another country, has no troops or weapons stationed abroad and pursues a policy of mutual respect and friendship with the world's peoples."

"The doubt being spread serves U.S. war preparations against Korea. .The south Koreans, backed by the U.S., are the ones who have put their troops on alert. The U.S. has increased its spying and has almost 28,500 troops occupying the south and at the ready. It is the U.S. that has nuclear weapons and has threatened to use them in a first strike against the DPRK."

"The U.S. refuses to recognize the great loss that has been suffered. Instead it spreads its war threats and doubts so as to provide an excuse for its own aggression against the Korean people. This U.S. warmongering and interference is not the way forward and certainly in no way aids the people of Korea."

"Kim Jong Il and the DPRK have led the Korean people in standing up for their dignity, independence and reunification. The Koreans are charting their own way forward, a heroic struggle to be supported by all. USMLO calls on everyone to stand with the DPRK and all the Korean people and join in building relations of mutual respect and friendship."

Can't see a whit of difference here. The government muckety-mucks are maybe a bit concerned, but overall, it's business as usual.

There are several reasons that it would be illogical and counterproductive for the DPRK to do much more than sabre rattling, not the least of which is that it would take only minutes for their troops to see that they've been lied to all these years. Then there's the obvious threat of total obliteration: the first shell to hit Seoul would result in the leveling of Pyeongyang. Not to mention that the PRC would likely rein them in before they did anything that could cost them (the PRC). They do not want western influence right on their borders.

United Governments of Planet Earth

All human beings are equal creatures regardless of their color, race, religion, or nationality.

No majority ethnic group have the right to persecute, overpower, or rule other minority ethnic groups on the basis of religion, dogma, or creed, and deprive them of their independence, sovereignty, and the right of free opinion, speech, and worship.

National Borders and parliaments should get abolished and federal global governments be installed; national armies and weapons dismantled and global police force formed; national currencies and central banks abandoned and global currency and global central bank comes forth; flags and anthems must go to history while nationalism and patriotism should change to global citizenships.

All resources of our Mother Earth must be shared justly among each and every global citizen according to his or her need, but considering everyone’s level of competence, proficiency, ingenuity, and their share of participation in enhancing the environment and the welfare of the whole.

All global citizens have equal rights to get access to food, drink, clothing, housing, employment, schooling, healthcare, and decent retirement.

All deserts, oceans, rivers, windy regions on the surface of earth and in the atmosphere, and highly advanced scientific free clean energy producing instruments should become global power stations generating common solar, wind, and free clean energy then distributed and sold through interregional and intercontinental lines under proper global cost so that each and every home, building, factory, machine, and vehicle in the whole world gets its need of clean and eco-friendly electricity and power regardless of all conditions.

Global fresh water should be distributed and sold through common intercontinental and interregional pipes and canals under proper global cost so that each and every region, city, town, and village in the whole world whether it is in a desert or a remote arid place gets its need of clean tap water regardless of all conditions.

Global crops must be planted and grown in fertile global plains and lands according to global plans then distributed and sold under proper global cost so that each and every global citizen gets access to clean and healthy food according to his or her need regardless of all conditions.

Global hospitals, clinics, pension institutions, decent retirement homes, schools, and universities should be all built and run proficiently in rural and urban regions all over the world so that each and every global citizen gets access to free education, healthcare, and decent retirement.

Global housing projects distributed and sold under facilitated long term global loans must get started along with industrial and agricultural projects in rural and urban regions all over the world and funded by the global bank so that each and every global citizen gets access to live and work any where he wishes on our beloved planet without any restrictions.

Realization of Global Peace

The sought dream of the United Governments of Planet Earth will not come true unless the United States of America raises high the torch of freedom and leads the way before the disseminated peoples of our beloved Planet Earth and unite them under the banner of one universal country of love, justice, and wisdom. Peace will then prevail amongst all ethnic and religious groups of the human kind and becomes one Cosmic Human Race.

The first step towards spreading Cosmic Justice in the world is by electing a Just and Humane President of the Future United States of America who has a cosmic view of the future world. Those attributes are found in “Foster Gamble”, the Chosen Cosmic man to run for presidency in the Future Cosmic United States of America that will become the future heart and centre of the United Governments of Planet Earth of Cosmic Justice.

Planet Earth is doomed if we all together don’t take the initiative of putting an end to the destructive acts that humanity brings upon itself and all other creatures of our Beloved Mother.

It is time for all members of the human race to act without further hesitation because we don’t have much time before we destroy life on our planet.

If you, members of the human race from all countries and religions, are willing to consider even the thought of ever realizing the dream of uniting the disseminated peoples of our beloved Mother Earth, please join your efforts in a yahoo group under the name of United Governments of Planet Earth.

If you agree to join get a yahoo ID and press:

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/UnitedGovernmentsOfPlanetEarth/
You will get the site of the group. Press on the (join the group) button and fill the form which is very simple where all you have to do is choose the kind of messages you want to receive on the web and print the code of letters and then press again the (join) button in the bottom of the page and you will be finished. You can from then on post and see messages. Every time you want to get to the group put Aww shucks Y-Man ... you got me.

Never much of a jammer though - didn't have the transmit power - most of the time didn't have the transmit at all.

But it was a fun listen - you gotta admit Tarzan and Doofus and Sir Sidney and the rest of the posse sure made Saturday nights interesting.

Then Riley ruined it all. :-(

Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) Report 1793 - December 23 2011

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1793 with a release date of Friday, December 23rd, 2011 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. France appears ready to modernize its Amateur Service rules; proposed Euro Zone laws could outlaw kit building and modifying ham radio gear; another major endorsement for a world-wide band at 500 KHz and the Do It Yourself Magic of Amateur Radio to premiere on the World Wide Web on December 27th. Find out the details are on Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) report number 1793 coming your way right now.

RADIO LAW: FRENCH REGULATOR MODERNIZING HAM RADIO LAWS

France appears to be on trhe verge of modernizing its amateur service rules. Newsline's Cheryl Lasek, K9BIK, is here with what's known so far:

French telecommunications regulator ARCEP looks as if it is ready to permit French radio amateurs to use modern means of communication such as D-STAR. On December 14th several French ham radio groups received a draft amendment from ARCEP regarding new laws to govern that nations amateur and amateur satellite services.

If approved, these new rules will replace the Decision No. 2010-0537, which currently governs French amateur radio operations. The new rules appear to liberalize modes and interconnect options for ham radio in the digital age.

According to the latest word that we have, the rules change proposals will be available for a public discussion on the ARCEP website and those of participating amateur radio associations.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Cheryl Lasek, K9BIK, in Zion, Illinois.

A careful study of text is already underway by a working group of French radio amateurs to formulate a joint response by January 20, 2012. (Southgate)

RADIO LAW: EU ZONE THREAT TO KITS AND MODIFYING RADIOS ARISES

DL9KCE reports a threat to amateur radio kits and modified equipment in the European Union. One arising from changes to the regions electromagnetic radiation or EMC exposure limits laws.

Currently amateur radio kits and modified equipment are specifically excluded from these directives but under the proposed changes they would be fully subjected to the EMC laws. The resulting high compliance costs could make it uneconomic to develop and sell kits in the European common market zone. More significant is that should radio amateur's want to modify equipment it appears they would also incur additional costs and bureaucratic red tape.

IARU Region 1 is expected to respond with a letter letter to lawmakersa in the very neart future.

RESTRUCTURING: ANOTHER ENDORSEMENT FOR A NEW HAM BAND AT 500 KHZ

A new world wide allocation near 500 KHz has received yet another backer. Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of the WIA News reports from Down-Under:

The proposal to allocate a part of the medium frequency band to the amateur service at the World Radio Conference in 2012 received a boost this week with the release of the Asia-Pacific Common Proposals that were developed at the 5th Meeting of the APT Conference Preparatory Group for WRC-12.

During this meeting the various nations of the Asia-Pacific region discussed many of issues that will be addressed at WRC12 and attempted to come to a regional consensus position.

The proposal of interest to the amateur service is to consider an allocation of about 15 kHz in parts of the band 415 to 526.5 kHz to the amateur service on a secondary basis, taking into account the need to protect existing services" and this proposal was supported by a comfortable margin of Asia-Pacific administrations responding to the voting request.

The successful development of a regional position supporting an amateur MF allocation increases the chances that the proposal will be accepted at WRC-12.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of the WIA News in Australia.

If the proposal is accepted and acted upon at WRC-12, among other things it will mean another place for hams world wide to experiment with many emerging digital codecs that permit long distance communications with very low power levels. (WIA News)

RADIO LAW: HAMS IN LEGANES SPAIN TURN TO FACEBOOK TO SAVE ANTENNAS

Hams in the city of Leganes, Spain are taking to Facebook in an attempt to try to retain the right to install and maintain their antennas.

Leganes is located about 11 km southwest of Spain's capital of Madrid. Its also where the city council has practically banned local radio amateurs from installing or retaining antenna systems. To bring this situation to the attention of the worlds of amateur radio outside Leganes, hams there have created a Facebook page at tinyurl.com/save-leganes-antennas.

The page is in Spanish but they ask that hams worldwide who have a Facebook account to go to it and click the "Like" button. The ham radio community of Leganes, Spain, hopes that a large turnout of support will help convince the town council to reverse its highly restrictive rulings. More in the Spanish language is on-line at www.fediea.org/news. (Southgate, FEDIEA)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AMSAT STARTS FOX-1 FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN

AMSAT North America has kicked off a funding drive to build and launch its Fox 1 ham radio satellite. This as a direct replacement for Amsat Oscar 51.

AMSAT Vice-President of Engineering, Tony Monteiro, AA2TX says that Fox-1 will advance single-channel FM repeater satellite operation beyond the experience of AO-51. Called the next generation of AO-51 class satellites, Fox-1 is designed for longer operational life. It also will contain technologic breakthroughs that could not be attained when AO-51 was designed.

Among the new features, Fox-1 is designed to operate in sunlight without batteries once the battery system fails. This applies lessons learned from both the AO-51 and ARISSat One operations. In case of Internal Housekeeping Unit failure Fox-1 will continue to operate its FM repeater in a basic, 'zombie sat' mode. This means that thew repeater will remain on the air.

Fox-1 is being designed as the immediate replacement for AO-51. Its UHF to VHF Mode B transponder will make it even easier to work with the most modest of equipment. This means from the ground user's perspective, the same amateur radio equipment used for AO-51 may be used for Fox-1.

For more information on this new satellite and the fund to put it in space please visit www dot amsat dot org.

We will have more ham radio space related news later on in this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report. (ANS)

RADIO LAW: TOWERS VS BIRDS - AGAIN

The FCC has released interim regulations governing tower siteing that it says strike a balance between protecting migratory birds and the needs of industries that want to build communication towers, Amateur Radio Newsline's Heather Butera-Howell, KB3TZD, has the details:

For years, broadcast engineers generally have said there's no proof that towers kill migratory birds, noting that they haven't seen piles of dead birds at the base of towers. Environmentalists disagree, saying towers, lights and guy wires pose a deadly threat.

In 2006, the commission asked for comments on the issue. Now the agency says evidence in the record suggests the likely impact of towers on migratory birds increases with tower height.

As researchers and attorneys predicted, towers over 450 feet in height will face more scrutiny. This will likely include the need to conduct an environmental assessment and allowing the public time to comment on where a new tower would be sited before construction. Methods of public notification could include publishing a newspaper notice or by going through a local zoning public notice process. An environmental notice is also required if an applicant changes the lighting of an existing tower to what is being termed as a less preferred style.

There is no official lighting ranking yet, however the commission says recommendations from federal wildlife protection agencies suggest that steady-burning red lights pose the greatest risk to migratory birds. Also that the differences among flashing and blinking lights are not statistically significant.

The FCC eventually intends to rank tower lighting in its final rule making on this issue but it has not said when it expects the regulations to be completed or their effective date.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Heather Butera-Howell, KB3TZD, near Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Nearly four years ago, a federal appeals court told the FCC its tower registration procedures fell short of meeting its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act, the Endangered Species Act and the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. The FCC says that its interim regulations address those responsibilities. (FCC, RW)

RADIO LAW: LIGHTSQUARED VS. GPS INDUSTRY - ROUND 6

The federal government has confirmed reports that tests conducted by a joint Technical Working Group show that signals from a nationwide wireless broadband network proposed by from LightSquared interfered with the majority of commercial GPS receivers that it tested. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is in the newsroom with the latest on this controversary between the government and private industry that can affect every GPS user:

A joint statement issued December 13th by the Department of Transportation and the Department of Defense confirms that testing did show that LightSquared signals caused harmful interference to the majority of tested general purpose GPS receivers. A separate battery of tests, conducted by the Federal Aviation Administration has shown the LightSquared like signals also interfered with Terrain Avoidance and Warning Systems. These rely heavily on GPS signals for reference to an aircraft's proximity to the ground.

In response, LightSquared executive vice-president Jeffrey Carlisle sent a letter on December 12th to FCC Secretary Marlene H. Dortch. In it, LightSquared offered to surrender authority over use of the upper part of its allotted spectrum to the National Executive Committee for Space-Based Positioning, Navigation and Timing which is a government organization of military and commercial telecommunications officials. The move would effectively shut LightSquared out from utilizing that bandwidth, which is immediately adjacent to the spectrum used by G-P-S receivers.

But here is a catch. In exchange for the concession, the company asked for immediate access to the lower 10 MHz of the spectrum initially granted to LightSquared by the FCC in December 2010. LightSquared claims signals utilizing this bandwidth will not interfere with most GPS devices, provided they are fitted with narrow bandwidth sharp cutoff filters.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Im Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in The City of Angels.

That proposal from LightSquared was met with suspicion from the Coalition to Save our GPS. In a statement, coalition member the National Business Aviation Association noted LightSquared's offer doesn't alleviate the overall concern that its system will still interfere with GPS signals. As such, there exists the potential of jeopardizing the safety of countless pilots and others who rely on GPS for navigation. (NABA)

RADIO LAW: FCC ADOPTS CALM ACT RULES TO LIMIT TV COMMERCIAL VOLUME

The Federal Communications Commission has taken what it terms as a major step toward eliminating one of the most persistent problems of the television age. That being those overly loud commercials that the public seems to hate.

On Wednesday, December 14th the Commission adopted a Report and Order that implements the 2010 Commercial Advertisement Loudness Mitigation or CALM Act. That's the statute in which Congress gave the Commission, for the first time, authority to address the problem of excessive commercial loudness.

The rules as adopted require that commercials have the same average volume as the programs they accompany. The rules also establish simple, practical ways for stations and multi-channel video programming distributors to demonstrate their compliance with the new regulations.

The CALM Act rules will become effective one year after the date of their adoption, or 13 December, 2012. This gives those broadcasters falling under the regulation until that date to be in full compliance. Equally important, it provides ample time for programmers and networks to provide their distributors with certifications stating the commercials that accompany their programming are fully compliant with these new rules.

While consumer complaints about loud commercials have diminished since 2009, the FCC expects that these new rules will reduce loudness complaints even further. (Media Network, FCC)

HAM HAPPENINGS: NEW RECORD FOR LA GRANGE 6 METER BUZZARD NET

December 19th set a new record for number of check-ins to the Georgia-based LaGrange 6 Meter Buzzard Net. According to Bob Yates, W4GCB, 32 stations from Georgia and Alabama showed up to take part. The station farthest from the net control was Thomas Glasze, K4SUS, who is in the north Georgia hills above the city of Ellijay. That's about 125 Airline miles from net control.

W4GCB says that the next goal for the net is to achieve 50 check-ins. The LaGrange 6 Meter Buzzard Net meets every Monday evening at 01:30 UTC on 50.155 Mhz, upper-sideband.

W4GCB notes that one of the best ways to protect our frequencies is to use them. He adds that keeping 6 meters active is not only worthwhile but is also a lot of fun. (W4GCB)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: HENNING SCHULZRINNE NAMED NEW FCC CHIEF TECHNOLOGY OFFICER

Some names in the news. First up is Henning Schulzrinne who has been named as the new Chief Technology Officer at the FCC. An engineering fellow at the FCC since 2010 and a professor in the School of Engineering at Columbia University, Schulzrinne will guide the agency's work on technology and engineering issues, together with the FCC's Office of Engineering and Technology.

The Columbia University professor reports to FCC Chairman Julius Genachowski. In his new role, Schulzrinne will advise on matters across the agency to ensure that FCC policies are driving technological innovation.

Schulzrinne is best known for development of key protocols that enable VoIP and other multimedia applications. He was a member of technical staff at AT&T Bell Laboratories, in Murray Hill New Jersey and an associate department head at GMD-Fokus in Berlin before joining Columbia University.

Schulzrinne will be based in the FCC's Office of Strategic Planning and Policy Analysis. He replaces Douglas Sicker, who was appointed to the position in June of 2010. (FCC)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: ENGINEERING GREAT BOB ORBAN ON TWIT.TV

And if you are a ham interested in audio processing technology, then you are likely familiar with the name Bob Orban. His work has made his company a world leader in broadcast audio processing technology some of which has been adapted into the ham radio community. In fact, it's hard to find any radio station or other broadcast outlet where one of his famed Optimod processors is not installed.

Now you can get a chance to learn a bit about the technology that Bob Orban created by watching two recent video podcasts on Leo LaPorte's TWIT dot TV internet network. On December 14th Bob Orban appeared on the shows Triangulation and This Week in Radio Tech. Both are now available for download or on-line viewing. Take your web browser to twit dot tv and use the websites search facility with the name Bob Orban to locate them. If great sounding audio is your thing, then this will be two hours well spent. EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: 137 KHZ SIGNAL GENERATED IN GERMANY SEEN IN ALASKA

Earlier on in this weeks newscast we reported on the latest support for a low-frequency ham radio allocation. Well, it's nearly 10 years since a low frequency signal from Europe has been received in Alaska. Now, the RF generated by Stefan Schaefer, DK7FC, of Heidelberg, Germany has been seen on 136.172 kHz at the remotely operated station of Laurence

Howell, KL7UK near Wasilla, Alaska.

Howell also holds the UK call sign G4DMA used Spectrumlab software to decode Schaefer's transmission. Using this system, a full callsign using dual frequency 30 second per dot CW was seen.

This is believed to be a first for this type of transpolar path as it has to cross the Auroral zone twice. Conditions have to be very stable with low geomagnetic and Proton levels, and the path only appears to be open in the deepest part of the winter.

KL7UK who is part of the WE2XPO low frequency experimental license group is using a 2 turn directional K9AY array and a remotely tuned Icom R75 receiver controlled from his residence in Bartlesville, Oklahoma. DK7FC in Germany had an Effective Radiated Power of only a few Watts.

The last signals across this path were seen were in 2003. At that time G3AQC, G3LDO and DF6NM made the rare path. More about these low frequency transmissions is on-line at kl7uk.com. (KL7UK)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: THREE ASTRO-HAMS HEADED TO THE ISS

Three more hams may already be on their way to the Interrnatioal Space Station. NASA astronaut Don Pettit, KD5MDT, Russian cosmonaut Oleg Kononenko, RN3DX, and Dutch astronaut Andre Kuipers, PI9ISS were scheduled for a December 21st launch to the orbiting outpost on 13:16 UTC. By the time you hear this they will likely be on-orbit. The three hams are headed for a half-year mission aboard the I-S-S as members of Expeditions 30 and 31. (ANS, Spaceflight Now)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ARISSAT-1 MISSION MAY END DECEMBER 31

ARISSat One may fall out of orbit sooner than originally predicted. Jim De Young, N8OQ, reports via the Amsat on-line Bulletin Board that the new estimated date for the re- entry of the ARISSat One into the Earth's atmosphere is December 31st, plus or minus about three days. .

As any satellite has descended to lower altitudes the atmospheric drag has increased significantly. This latest prediction For ARISSat One's demise uses solar data through this past December 14th and only includes orbital height data gathered between December 9th and the 14th. (ANS)

RADIO FROM SPACE: RUSSIAN PHOBOS-GRUNT MAY DEORBIT IN EARLY JANUARY

And ARISSat One is not the only satellite expected to fall from orbit in the near future. Russia's troubled Phobos-Grunt probe, which has been stuck in the wrong orbit for more than a month, appears to be headed for a fiery and uncontrolled fall back to Earth in early January.

Space debris tracking experts are predicting that giant Russian-built spacecraft will re-enter Earth's atmosphere on January 9th but at present, the forecast includes an uncertainty of plus or minus 5 1/2 days. In fact, some space debris analysts are even suggesting that the spacecraft could see its demise as early as January 1st or 2nd.

Phobos-Grunt was designed to land on Phobos, one of Mars two moons. The mission was slated to gather rock and soil samples from Phobos and return them to Earth in 2014.

But after shortly being boosted into space on November 9th Moscow time, the spacecraft failed to send itself toward the red planet. Russian, European and U.S. deep space network receivers were mobilized in hopes of salvaging the marooned probe, but flight controllers have struggled to regain control of Phobos-Grunt with no success to date. ON THE AIR: HAMS IN KAZAKHSTAN CELEBRATE NATIONS 20TH ANNIVERSARY

On the air, hams in Kazakhstan are celebrating their country's 20th anniversary with the use of special callsigns as well as issuing a certificate to commemorate the event. The 48 special callsigns along with QSL routing and commemorative certificate information is listed at kw dot cqun dot kz. Kazakhstan is best known in ham radio circles as the home of the Bikenour Cosmodrome from where a number of ham radio satellites and crews to the International Space Station have been launched. DX

In DX, members of the NN6NN RTTY Team will be activating PJ2N from the Signal Point Station on Curacao Island during the 2012 ARRL RTTY Round-Up. The date for this one is January 7th and 8th with the team operating as a multi-op high power entry. QSL direct to NN6NN or electronically using Logbook of the World.

A team consisting of 12 European operators will be active as HU2DX from the Capricho Beach House in El Salvador, between January 29th and February 10th. Operations will be on 160 through 10 meters with the main focus on the lower bands. QSL via DH7WW either direct or via the bureau. More information is on-line at www dot hu2dx dot de.

AA9A and W4OWY will be active from Antigua as V25AA and V25WY, respectively, between February 13th and the 22nd. Their operations will be on 160 through 6 meters using CW, SSB and RTTY. QSL via their home callsigns.

Lastly, a group of Polish operators are planning to be active as PJ7PT from Sint Maarten between March 5th to the 18th. Their operations will be on 160 through 6 meters using CW, SSB and RTTY. QSL via SP9PT. More about this operation is on-line at www.pj7pt.com

THAT FINAL ITEM: "THE DIY MAGIC OF AMATEUR RADIO" ARRL VIDEO TO BE RELEASED VIA DECEMBER 27th AND DEC 3rd NETCASTS

And finally this week, two dates to mark down on your ham radio social calendar. The first is this Tuesday, December 27th at 8:30 p.m. Eastern time. That's when the ARRL will present an on-line premiere screening of its new video titled The DIY Magic of Amateur Radio.

To accomplish this the League has teamed up with Tom Medlin, W5KUB, who will be streaming it from his website at w5kub.com. The video will also be released earlier that day on-line at the ARRL's own website at www.arrl.org and on the ARRL video pages on YouTube dot com. All three are a part of a new ARRL public relations campaign to interest the nations maker and hacker community in our world of ham radio.

Then a week later on January 3rd at 9 p.m. Eastern, the shows producer Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, along with Director Dave Bell, W6AQ and writer Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, will be the guests of Bob Heil, K9EID, and Gordon West, WB6NOA. This on their weekly TWIT dot TV video podcast known as Ham Nation.

Bell, Feinberg and Pasternak will give you a behind the scenes look at how the DIY Magic of Amateur Radio video was conceived as well as how it was put together using the very latest digital video production techniques. You will also get to see the video in its entirety.

Look for this live netcast at 9 PM Eastern on Tuesday, January 3rd at live.twit.tv. If you miss it, wait about 24 hours for it to be posted at twit.tv/hn. (ARRL, ARNewsline(tm))

WOW!

$76.00 USD, delivered -- from China!

Looks like you would need an external BFO for SSB ... no real problem though.

Also, the USB cable is only for transfer of MP3s to/from the unit?
Would really be fantastic if the unit could be software controlled ...

The fact is the NIST voting machines are rigged to give the

They blamed it on ACORN last time but President Osama was picked

Most Baby Boomers in the Southwest can tell you about Todd Storz' mighty KOMA. They had regular listeners in Hawaii and you could get them in Vietnam with the right equipment. Look at the size of their towers.

I lived in Astoria, OR when I was 15, and KOMA was one of my favorite stations. They boomed in loud and clear once I nulled out (the then) KYXI, a 50KW plant licensed to Oregon City, just 80 miles away. At one point, much later in my life, I was even able to receive them in Portland (8 miles NNW) using a Fisher tuner and a large loop antenna. Nulling (by then) KSGO was more difficult, but it could be done because I was outside their primary nighttime pattern.

dxer.ca has some docs on the similar 390.

sound is crispy on the speakers, but output is great on ampli.

reception on fm excellent.
am, sw good, filters 1 2 3 4 6 khz long wave is bad.

I would maybe like a record function ...
I own 310 380 390

Actually, I think you are on to something. My confidence in my

Yep, pretty much spot on, agreed.

The USA is also following much that same model, but somewhat modified.

The most important point is, the government here is the citizens worst and foremost enemy. It is very hard to identify true enemies anymore, as the criminals in our public servant offices are using our military and other resources to steal other nations wealth and resources for their puppet masters -- the rich-elite, corporations, etc.

Until we get our house in order, the middle class on down will suffer, and our childrens' futures will be bleak ... sad, so very, very sad.

Unfortunately, we have whole generations, now, which have grown up depending on their parents, then the government -- they are quite at a loss of what to do, and seem trapped into being a child forever -- unable to become the adult which reaches back and helps the generation which follows them, unable to shoulder their responsibilities to protect their creator given rights, freedoms and privilages. So, they simply exist as the slaves of the powers which be, and wait like dogs for table scraps to be dropped to them ...

JS

If that's the case, then the last thing citizens should do is to enable the government to fight them better. But that's what we're doing.

Regens and distortion... if the regen stage doesnt demodulate, there is no significant distortion. Distortion comes from the prewar approach of using a nonlinear regen stage to demodulate as well.

Funny that they picked the second harmonic of the old KXA. To properly resurrect the old KXA, they would be running dreary classical music.
And running a dipole on the roof of a local department store. (The last medium wave wire antenna in the country, I think.)

Isn't the mega-talker in Sacramento that runs/(used to run?) HD-Radio on 1530 or 1540? Having 50kw in their digital sideband would sure screw that up.

Liberty Net: December 17, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/12/liberty-net-december-17-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

LIBERTY NET participants wish you and your loved ones the very best of Yuletides this year, and hope that you remember, and remind all your family and friends about, the vital importance of freedom of speech and freedom of association in the coming year.

Hereï¿½s a small selection from the topics discussed during this weekï¿½s free-ranging Liberty Net discussion:

ï¿½ Politicians lie all the time, but itï¿½s useful to point out one of their most sneaky lies ï¿½ one in which the billionairesï¿½ media are complicit: They constantly claim to be ï¿½reducing the deficit,ï¿½ which really means little or nothing because they never reduce the debt. In order to reduce the debt, the deficit would not only have to be totally eliminated, but reversed. But, since the bankers want us to work for them forever, and since most of the voters are so ignorant that they donï¿½t know the difference between the debt and the deficit, the debt will never be reduced unless there is a coup or revolution to restore legitimate government. (21 minutes)

ï¿½ From the 1970s to today, there have been at least a dozen repeated claims by the Zionist lobby and their sycophants in Congress about the ï¿½dangerï¿½ of ï¿½imminentï¿½ construction of a nuclear bomb by Iran, all in an effort to start a war to decimate this rival of Israelï¿½s. Why, by the way, are none of the billionairesï¿½ media outlets calling for bombing Tel Aviv, since everyone acknowledges that that Israel has nuclear weapons? (27 minutes)

ï¿½ Itï¿½s no wonder that parents are pulling their students out of the public schools in record numbers, considering the sickness exemplified by the ï¿½feminist,ï¿½ anti-White, pro-perversion values taught there. This was demonstrated forcefully recently when one school staged an event in which a male student was tricked into erotically kissing and fondling his own mother when both were wearing blindfolds. (31 minutes)

ï¿½ Was the ï¿½lostï¿½ drone purposely landed on Iranian territory in order to feed them false information? Was the drone really valueless 30-year-old technology? (45 minutes)

ï¿½ Rumor has it that Ireland has prepared plates for the printing of Irish pounds again, in case they decide to drop out of the Euro zone. (1 hour 1 minute)

ï¿½ Beware of ï¿½escheat lawsï¿½ in the state where you live: Under these so-called laws, the bankers and the government can simply seize your bank account if it is ï¿½inactiveï¿½ for more than a certain number of months. (1 hour 8 minutes)

ï¿½ Now that we are ï¿½withdrawingï¿½ from Iraq (a lie really; huge US military bases and mercenary operations continue there), the Israeli-linked oligarchs have ordered US troops to the Lebanon-Syria border area in preparation for starting another war for Israel. (1 hour 30 minutes)

ï¿½ Would anyone in his right mind buy a retirement plan from an insurance company that invested your funds in zero-interest non-marketable securities, and arrogated to itself the right to plunder your funds whenever it wanted to? Why, then, do people have faith in an identical plan called ï¿½Social Securityï¿½? (1 hour 53 minutes)

ï¿½ Why do the candidates in the recent debates discuss Israel at least as much as they discuss the United States? Could it be that Israeli interests have bought off ï¿½ or sexually compromised ï¿½ almost all American politicians? (2 hours 12 minutes)

Thanks to Marty, N2IRJ, youï¿½re able to listen to the Liberty Net on your computer ï¿½ or download the file and listen on your portable mp3 player. And check out our live feed and chat during Net times too.

Please check in with your call sign, and add your voice to the most exciting net on the amateur bands ï¿½ every Saturday night, starting at 10PM Eastern Time.

Our deepest thanks go to W1WCR for his hard work and courage in running the Liberty Net, which is now approaching its 38th year.

You might be ... the ones I am watching are crying for peaceful resistance and demand the Constitution be followed as the law of the land -- the forefathers said what they meant, and meant what they said
... if that fails:

"God forbid we should ever be twenty years without such a rebellion.
The people cannot be all, and always, well informed. The part which is wrong will be discontented, in proportion to the importance of the facts
they misconceive. If they remain quiet under such misconceptions, it is lethargy, the forerunner of death to the public liberty. ...
And what country can preserve its liberties, if its rulers are not warned from time to time, that this people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms. The remedy is to set them right as to the facts, pardon and pacify them. What signify a few lives lost in a century or two? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time, with the blood of patriots and tyrants.
It is its natural manure." -- Thomas Jesserson, November 13, 1787, letter to William S. Smith, quoted in Padover's Jefferson On Democracy,
ed., 1939

Supporters of Ron Paul fed up with his treatment by the MSM might like this coverage from The Guardian two weeks ago. (I've just noticed it while looking for paper to light the fire while I stay in my friend's house...)

"He is a veteran candidate, with an isolationist and libertarian agenda perhaps more suited to a bygone era. But Ron Paul, one of the fringe Republicans, might just be capable of producing a surprise upset in the first of the Republican primary elections in Iowa, thanks to support from a unlikely quarter ï¿½ the young.

His anti-war message, calling on America to stop acting as the world's policeman, is resonating, with more than 1,000 young people gathering in the Great Hall in Ames, Iowa, on Thursday night to cheer him repeatedly as he called on US troops to be brought back not just from Afghanistan but from Germany, Japan, Korea and 120 other countries round the world.

They cheered too as he opposed war in Syria or Iran, describing the nuclear threat posed by Tehran as overblown. More than 200 people, mainly students but also young people from round the state, including serving soldiers, stood in line afterwards to have their picture taken with him."

Why do people have faith in Social Security?

Just a guess, but the fact that it has worked pretty well for the last 76 years might have something to do with it.

Probably because "the young people" know that they will be cannon fodder for the wars started by the greedy Wall Street bastards (mostly Republicans?) a la General Smedley Butler (see note).

Note: "War is a Racket", a short book by US Marine Corp Major General Smedley Butler on how the US military made war far more for Wall Street and big corporations than anyone's freedom...

Well, if you call "working pretty well" a system in which 1) one is forced to "invest" essentially at gunpoint, and 2) in which the vast preponderance of the assets of the investors are looted at will and have been bled nearly dry by debasement of the currency and 3) which keeps afloat only by more forced extractions from new victims, then I guess you're right.

If the system had been run honestly and without coercion and had invested in real, productive assets, and, most importantly, had been protected from rape by bankers and politicians, then I would agree with you (and I think our retirees would be ten times richer at the very least).

With all good wishes,

Kevin.

Actually, there still is no problem with social security. However, first the funds stolen for minority groups, vietnam evac of the boat people, to here, the funds "slushed" into the general fund, etc., etc., would have to be put back and the IOUs on the stolen monies made good. In this regards, the crooks in our government, with ties to rich-elite-corporate America, are much like any bank robber ... they would like everyone to simply forget about it, write off their thefts, and go on to poverty and starvation ... it is our job not to let them get away with it ...

Fact is, social security is what has allowed people to work for cheap wages and live paycheck-to-paycheck, for many, this is all the retirement they have, or ever will have -- now that the banksters and wall street have raped the funds using corrupt and criminal public servants, they just wish to wash their hands of it.

Hindsight is always much more accurate then foresight. The plans to reduce the common citizens to 3rd world status is continuing ... if we can have afforded the trillions to give the wealth banks and shareholders ungodly sums of money, we can damn well afford to take care of our fellow American citizens in their old age and illnesses ... however, as always, the criminally insane would allow them to die in poverty, on the streets, without a roof over their heads.

Until we weed the sociopaths and psychotics from public servant offices, the horrors they have planned will simply continue and at an accelerating rate ... it is time to give them their just rewards.

JS

You just woke up 11 years ago?

Indeed, it was the early 60's, the assassination of Kennedy, when things began taking a radical course. Things did not get this bad in the course of just a few years, or a couple of decades, the coup at that time placed people with very long range plans into place ... what you are seeing is just the end game. Now things are coming to their fulfillment, and a elite class governing masses of serfs is becoming reality.

The, once, richest nation, with the highest standard of living, has now been transformed to one where half the population is at or near poverty levels of existence ... and it only get worse -- only morons would be surprised at this, since we simply continue doing the same things which got us here in the first place.

And, if you think those profiting from it are going to suddenly have a change of heart, and suddenly going to want to honor stewardship for America and its' citizens, think again ... they will only loose control when their cold dead fingers are pried from the wealth they have stolen, and the future wealth they plan on, yet, stealing.

Grab a chair ... this movie is only in its' second half, there is much more drama, crime and suffering in the plot lines ...

And a very HAPPY CHRISTMAS to you too Burr, and indeed to all our friends.
Going to be a lovely day here in the mountains at the Southern tip of Afica and the wife and I willl spend a quiet day as she has just had a heart attack (okay after four days in hospital). 70F now at 6.00 a.m.

What is the Golden Come-Along Award?

The Golden Come-Along Award is given to that individual who has been deemed to have had his/her head stuck so far up their ass during the previous year that it would require the assistance of a come-along to pull it out.

This year's recipient is of course Dave Rickmers, representing some God forsaken location in the bankrupt State of California, who started off in good form and continued non stop through out the year.

Congratulations Dave, what a stellar performance!

(Dave was also the recipient in 2010)

All I want for Xmas is clinton, the bushes, and obama on the gallows, most of the senate and house in prison, awaiting trail and long sentences, fed, state and local authorities -- who have assisted them, and supported them, there with them. And, let's not forget the banksters and wall street, misery loves company, after all ...

Now, that isn't too much to ask, is it?

Bradley Manning is something of a "Justice Indicator and Gauge," as we will know the Constitution is being respected when he is released and this torturers and tormentors take his place:

First of all, it is Mr. Lare to you. Secondly, far from indicating impaired judgment his selection of Mr. Rickmers (I honestly thought his last name was Ricketts as in the disease) implies crystal clear thinking, sober reflection and Solomon like judgment.

Of course those of us who know Mr. Lare, a decorated United States Navy hero, expect nothing less and he never disappoints. The only complaint I and hundreds of others have is that he doesn't weigh in more often. Perhaps as a gift to the group he will share his wit, insights and nuggets of wisdom more frequently in 2012.

The author here is definitely an eccentric but he has some good ideas. Like the late Mel Tappan, whom I knew as a kid and whom he references frequently, he simply has no idea that 90% of even the small minority perceptive and future-oriented enough to be interested in what he has to say does not have the unlimited funds that would be required to implement some of what he discusses.

The Young Turks host Cenk Uygur felt Friday evening that it was time for the U.S. government to release U.S. Army Pfc. Bradley Manning from prison.

Nineteen months after being arrested, the trial for the Wikileaks information provider finally began on Friday. Manning is facing 22 charges, including “unauthorized release of half a million reports and cables” and “aiding the enemy.”

If convicted of the latter charge, Manning could face even the death penalty, despite the U.S. government indicating that no one has been injured from the leaks or that the leaks were classified as top secret.

Between the questionable charges and the harsh treatment in jail he has received, Uygur thought it was time to let Manning go.

“He did our soldiers a world of good,” he said. “Time served is plenty enough time. Scooter Libby served no time and he betrayed a CIA agent. That caused real harm. Dick Cheney – no time. Karl Rove – no time. It’s time to free Bradley Manning.”

AMEN!!!

Since the citizens of the government of the USA IS the government, we elect public servants to simply carry out their will and act in their best interests, citizens should always be as well informed as possible -- to deny citizens the knowledge and data needed to make informed decisions is, and always will be, a direct action of treason. Lying by omission or deception is still lying ... DUH!

Classifying data simply to control the citizens, or for personal gain for public servants and/or their puppet masters, should always be a crime punishable by death ... too many have already managed to put their punishment off, or appear to be escaping them.

If you are not a student of practical jokes, you might not know they have a specific formula. A proper practical joke is more than a surprise or a lie. The magic part of the prank formula involves leaving enormous clues that are obvious to everyone but the target of the prank.

Dunkirk Today, TET Tomorrow.

WEAPONIZING IRONY FOR NEARLY TWO DECADES.
BEING THE PERSISTENT MEMORY OF A CONSTITUENCY WHO DESERVING NEITHER PEACE NOR FREEDOM -- IRONICALLY GETS NEITHER.

LIBs. What FARCE their Vision?

History repeating itself, first as Tragedy, then as FARCE.

Tragedy:
"to leave now we would send a message to terrorists and other potential adversaries around the world that they can change our policies by killing our people.
It would be open season on Americans."
-- Bill Clinton '93
just before he pulled out of Somalia.

Farce:
To abandon this area now -- and to rely only on efforts against alQaeda from a distance -- would significantly hamper our ability to keep the pressure on al Qaeda, and create an unacceptable risk of additional attacks on our homeland and our allies.
-- OBAMA'09

http://harpers.org/archive/2009/07/0082548
The ironic cloud

Irony is a powerful and incompletely understood feature of human dynamics. A technique for dissimulation and secret speech, irony is considerably more complex than lying and even more dangerous. Ideally suited to mobilization on the shifting terrain of asymmetrical conflict, inherently covert, insidiously plastic, politically potent, irony offers rogue elements a volatile if often overlooked means by which to demoralize opponents and destabilize regimes. ...

Excitingly, such systems could be understood as the tangible culmination of a 2,500-year humanistic Western project of making words matter.

Depends what your definition of is really is....

Such would NOT be tolerated in a Society with a Long Memory.

Well yes, I DO contend it works pretty well. (Please note I did not say it was perfect.)

* It saved the day for lots of blue-haired little old ladies that never got married and made peanuts while employed as retail clerks.

* It saved an acquaintance of mine when his father died at a young age.
Social Security kept the wolf away from the door and kept his mother from having to send him to an orphanage.

* Heck, even a member of this newsgroup (who shall remain nameless) gets a Social Security disability check.

"Debasement of the currency" is occurring with -or without- Social Security.

And finally, call it "forced" if you will, but many people made such lousy wages that they were lucky to put food on the table and pay the mortgage without having any money left over to set aside for their retirement.

Amen!

How can not nations hate us? Those nations who are having their resources stolen, and/or controlled, by our rich-elite and/or our military-industrial-complex, should hate us -- the actions by the treasonous criminals in our public servant offices are against our Constitution, and against all Americans -- our public servants crimes are involving all the world and are of a horrendous nature and size.

The current criminals in public servant offices are our first and foremost enemy, indeed, they are the enemy of most of the world and humanity itself. The "black hearted" evil human swine in both parties are a plague on mankind itself ... how we have went from attempting to do good, to being the great satan, is simply an amazing question and fact. The rich, elite, powerful, corporate-America, should NEVER control our public servants, the people are the government, each and every single one of us ...

Before we need to advise any other nation on what is good and proper conduct, we first need to get our own house in order ...

JS

I've seen pictures (which I can't seem to find on the internet) of old AM broadcast antennas consisting of multiple parallel wires strung between two towers on the rooftop of a building. These were typically located on top of a hotel, with the broadcast studio in the hotel.

Were these wires truly parallel, or were they strung in a zig-zag pattern (which I'll try to illustrate below)? If parallel, what's the theory and advantage of having them parallel?

Dammit, I figured my illustration wouldn't display correctly. Does anyone know why the text in my posts become fragmented? Is it Google or Windows (or both) that can't even process simple text

This is pure history, it literally documents the "first shot fired" in the coup which has resulted in this government being overtaken by criminals which have no respect for the Constitution.

And, to think that I was taught, "Crime doesn't pay." Seems to me, this bunch has profited well and for half a century now ... while it has been pretty tough on a lot of Americans, as their wealth, possessions, standard of living, morals, ethics, etc. have been trashed and destroyed -- this bunch has done very nicely for themselves ... very nicely indeed ... republicrats and democans carry on untouched ... sad, so very, very sad ...

Dammit, I figured my illustration wouldn't display correctly. Does anyone know why the text in my posts become fragmented? Is it Google or Windows (or both) that can't even process simple text

Your illustration appears to have come out fine here, showing a series of parallel lines with "pipes" between each on the left hand side.

That's the one. They seem to have quit running HD at night.
Back when all that mess was starting, they were one of the only

I've seen pictures of antennas like that strung between the masts of old steamships. Folded dipoles. The high-impedance feedline (ladder line) fed the center of the center wire. Instead of a single additional wire connecting the ends of the center wire, a bunch of parallel wires were used, separated by several circular spreaders.

When you make an antenna with a large-diameter radiator, it is inherently more broad-band than just a wire. The multiple parallel wires created the equivalent of a radiator with the diameter of the circular spreaders.
In those days, antenna tuners were standard equipment anyway.

Yes. These problems, the guilt, the failure of the citizens to keep criminals from positions in their country where they are unable to victimize others, including their own citizens ... it is a problem affecting us all. These forces are truly attempting to establish a worldwide order amongst themselves, already they see themselves as Pyongyang, December 25 (KCNA) -- The Korean people are called upon by a political essay of Rodong Sinmun Sunday to become eternal revolutionary comrades of leader Kim Jong Il.

The essay says:

The Koreans came to know about the world of comradeship looking up to the image of Kim Jong Il after the untimely loss of President Kim Il Sung. The world of comradeship has been brought home to them again at this time of mourning over the sudden loss of Kim Jong Il thanks to the image of Kim Jong Un, vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission of the Workers' Party of Korea.

Kim Jong Il loved and valued the call of comrade all his life and he breathed his last as ardent as the call.
He showed what a comrade means by living his life as comrade of Kim Il Sung and the people. He formulated the new concept of comrade throughout his great life.
What was it that he truly wished?
Whether people truly like or not is a standard of the revolution set by him and it is his last instruction and the revolutionary task facing us.

Revolutionary comrades of Kim Jong Il,
Let us think whether it would help advance the country and improve people's livelihood when we do ideological and economic work and cultural construction or when we make a product or modernize a factory.
Korea would lead the world!

This was what was intended and hoped for by Kim Jong Il.
Our life goal is remaining truly faithful to him.
Kim Jong Il put forward the respected young Kim Jong Un, son of Mt. Paektu, at the van of the ranks. It was aimed to accomplish the sacred revolutionary cause reflected in of Patriotic Song.
Let us become eternal comrades of Kim Jong Il.
Let us become eternal revolutionary comrades of Kim Jong Un, sun of the 21st century who rose up with all of the people in his fold true to the undying behests of Kim Jong Il.

Very commendable. If only the West had such caring leaders.

Pyongyang, December 25 (KCNA) -- Kim Jong Un, vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission of the Workers' Party of Korea, made sure with his loving care on Sunday that a large quantity of sugar was sent to mobile service networks in the wake of taking a measure to provide convenience to the people visiting outdoor mourning stations in grief over the great loss to the nation on a top priority basis under any circumstances.

Under this care warm sweet water was served to those at the mourning stations in the capital in greater quantities.
The people from all walks of life and school youth and children who visited the stations at Kim Il Sung Square, plazas of the Party Founding Memorial Tower, the April 25 House of Culture and the Pyongyang Indoor Stadium and other places in the capital were deeply moved to receive warm sweet water.

He also made sure that hot packs were sent and soya-based drink, honeyed water, various kinds of tea and warm water were provided to people so that they might not feel cold. Not yet feeling assured, he repeatedly took such kind steps. He is such meticulous and tender-hearted man.

It is due obligation for the people to visit those stations, ardently missing the nation's father whom they trusted and followed as Heaven. They revere him as an incarnation of humanity.
The loving care repeatedly shown by Kim Jong Un for people when the whole nation is overcome with sorrow will be conveyed to posterity as a legend about love for people.

It is your choice of font ... try an non-variable width font with equal spacing of all characters ...

What you want is a fixed-width font, as opposed to a non-proportional font ...

THIS:
"Most examples of ASCII art require a fixed-width font (non-proportional

Pyongyang, December 25 (KCNA) -- Kim Jong Un, vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission of the Workers' Party of Korea, has personified the love shown by leader Kim Jong Il for the people.

On December 24, all the servicepersons and people were deeply touched by the warm love shown by Kim Jong Un.

He earnestly instructed the officials to provide the people with convenience on a top-priority basis under any circumstances so that they might not be affected while mourning the demise of Kim Jong Il day and night in profound grief.

He underscored the need to take thorough healthcare measures for the people missing Kim Jong Il very much and falling into a swoon. And he told officials to console the mourners on the spot, offering them warm water.

Yesterday Kim Jong Un made sure that fresh fishes were supplied to every family in Pyongyang in reflection of Kim Jong Il's warm love for people and today he took a special step for meeting people's interests and providing the best conveniences to them on a top-priority basis under any circumstances.

Kim Jong Un, identical to Kim Jong Il, is the popular tender-hearted father and the sun of the destiny as he is the man the people will follow to the end of the earth.
Kim Jong Il is always with us.

A seamless transition of leadership, very admirable.

Pyongyang, December 25 (KCNA) -- With all the people lamenting over the demise of leader Kim Jong Il, Kim Jong Un, vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission of the Workers' Party of Korea, took special measures to set up more service facilities for mourners' health around the mourning sites.

He also gave instructions to officials to make an on-site survey of the situation and offer every possible convenience to the mourners.

Ri Ju O, who works at the Secretariat of the Cabinet, told KCNA: "According to respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's instructions, many organs have set up hot drink and medical service facilities for mourners' health around the mourning sites. Among them are the General Bureau of Public Service, Rakwon Guidance Bureau, Taehung Guidance Bureau, Pyongyang University of Medicine Teaching Hospital affiliated with Kim Il Sung University and Central District People's Hospital.

Officials dispatched to the mourning sites are taking rapid steps to fully provide service conditions."

An Chol Ryong, a 45-year-old resident in Moranbong District, said: "Taking hot drink, we felt the fatherly love for our people that has continued through generations."

Another poster referred to cage dipoles, and it is possible that a few early broadcast arrays were cage dipoles, just as some were inverted Ls, but the vast majority of these early parallel wire antennas were "T" antennas. What looks like the feeder in these antennas is actually the vertical radiating element, and the symmetrical horizontal wires (yes, typically all in parallel) are a non-radiating capacity hat to lower the system's resonant frequency. Multiple wires have somewhat more capacity than single wires, and also make the antenna more broadbanded and thus easier to tune, but I think their use had more to do with early semi-mythical antenna lore than it did with real-world benefits.

These antennas weren't understood too well at the time they were first developed, but early spark transmitter and LF alternator operators knew that they could tune an antenna system's reactance out and make it "take power" on the desired frequency by varying the width and length of the capacity hat.

When mathematical models began to be used to design antennas, in the late 20s / early 30s I think, it was found that the same or better performance could be had with simpler designs that survived the weather better.

T antennas are seldom used on the Standard Broadcast Band today, but amateurs still use them fairly often on 160 meters, where the requisite height for a quarter wave vertical is hard to achieve.

With all good wishes,

Kevin, WB4AIO.

Did I mention that the Democratic People's Republic of Korea has no drug or crime problem?

MEXICO CITY (AP) — When convoys of soldiers or federal police move through the scrubland of northern Mexico, the Zetas drug cartel knows they are coming.

The alert goes out from a taxi driver or a street vendor, equipped with a high-end handheld radio and paid to work as a lookout known as a "halcon," or hawk.

The radio signal travels deep into the arid countryside, hours by foot from the nearest road. There, the 8-foot-tall (2-meter-tall) dark-green branches of the rockrose bush conceal a radio tower painted to match. A cable buried in the dirt draws power from a solar panel. A signal-boosting repeater relays the message along a network of powerful antennas and other repeaters that stretch hundreds of miles (kilometers) across Mexico, a shadow communications system allowing the cartel to coordinate drug deliveries, kidnapping, extortion and other crimes with the immediacy and precision of a modern military or law-enforcement agency.

The Mexican army and marines have begun attacking the system, seizing hundreds of pieces of communications equipment in at least three operations since September that offer a firsthand look at a surprisingly far-ranging and sophisticated infrastructure.
Current and former U.S. law-enforcement officials say the equipment, ranging from professional-grade towers to handheld radios, was part of a single network that until recently extended from the U.S. border down eastern Mexico's Gulf coast and into Guatemala.

The network allowed Zetas operatives to conduct encrypted conversations without depending on the official cellphone network, which is relatively easy for authorities to tap into, and in many cases does not reach deep into the Mexican countryside.
"They're doing what any sensible military unit would do," said Robert Killebrew, a retired U.S. Army colonel who has studied the Mexican drug cartels for the Center for a New American Security, a Washington think tank. "They're branching out into as many forms of communications as possible."

The Mexican army said on Dec. 4 that it had seized a total of at least 167 antennas, 155 repeaters, 166 power sources, 71 pieces of computer equipment and 1,446 radios. The equipment has been taken down in several cities in the Gulf coast state of Veracruz and the northern states of Nuevo Leon, Coahuila, San Luis Potosi and Tamaulipas.

The network was built around 2006 by the Gulf cartel, a narcotics-trafficking gang that employed a group of enforcers known as the Zetas, who had defected from Mexican army special forces. The Zetas split from the Gulf cartel in 2010 and have since become one of the nation's most dominant drug cartels, with profitable sidelines in kidnapping, extortion and human trafficking.

The network's mastermind was Jose Luis Del Toro Estrada, a communications expert known as Tecnico who pleaded guilty to conspiracy to distribute cocaine in federal court in Houston, Texas, two years ago.

Using millions of dollars worth of legally available equipment, Del Toro established the system in most of Mexico's 31 states and parts of northern Guatemala under the orders of the top leaders in the Gulf cartel and the Zetas. The Gulf cartel boss in each drug-smuggling territory, or plaza, was responsible for buying towers and repeaters as well as equipping his underlings with radios, according to Del Toro's plea agreement.

Del Toro employed communications specialists to maintain and run the system and research new technology, according to the agreement.

Mexican authorities, however, presented a different picture of the cartel radio infrastructure, saying it was less monolithic than the one described by U.S. authorities. A Mexican military official denied that the army and navy have been targeting one network that covered the entire Gulf coast. The operations had been focused on a series of smaller, local systems that were not connected to each other due to technical limitations, he said.
"It's not a single network," the official told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity due to the sensitivity of the topic. "They use it to act locally."

In recent years, reporters traveling with the Mexican military have heard cartels using radio equipment to broadcast threats on soldiers' frequencies. The military official told the AP that the signals are now encrypted, but cartels are still trying to break in.
At least until recently, the cartel's system was controlled by computers that enabled complex control of the radio signals, allowing the cartel to direct its communications to specific radios while bypassing others, according to Grupo Savant, an intelligence and security consulting firm in Washington that has firsthand knowledge of Mexico's cartel operations.

The radio system appears to be a "low-cost, highly extendable and maintainable network" that shows the Zetas' sophistication, said Gordon Housworth, managing director of Intellectual Capital Group, LLC, a risk- and technology-consulting firm that has studied the structure and operations of Mexican cartels and criminal groups.

Other Mexican criminal organizations maintain similar radio networks, including the Sinaloa cartel, based in the Pacific coast state of the same name, and the Barrios Azteca street gang, which operates in Ciudad Juarez, across from El Paso, Texas, a U.S. law-enforcement official said. The Zetas' system is the largest, however, the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the topic.

The Mexican raids are "a deliberate attempt to disrupt the business cycle of the cartels," said one former law-enforcement official with direct knowledge of the network. "By going after command and communications you disrupt control."

Law-enforcement officials and independent analysts described the operations against the Zetas' communications system as significant short-term victories in the fight against the cartel.
"The seizures show that the organization is scrambling," said Steven Dudley, co-director of InSight, a group that analyzes and investigates organized crime in Latin America.

The longer-term impact is unclear. The cartel has had little difficulty in replacing radio gear and other equipment seized in smaller operations in recent years. And contacts among the highest-ranking Zetas operatives tend to take place in highly encrypted communications over the Internet, according to Grupo Savant.

Certainly, cartel radio equipment is a near-ubiquitous presence for Mexicans living along the front lines of the drug war.
In the state of Tamaulipas, across the border from eastern Texas, many antennas are concealed in the foliage of the rockrose, an invasive shrub that has spread across much of the state's open land.

Even from a few feet (meters) away it's nearly impossible to see the towers or their power cables.
In Nuevo Laredo, the Zetas' first stronghold, antennas sprout from rooftops and empty lots. One soldier told the AP that even when authorities took down an antenna there, it was swiftly replaced.

Associated Press writers E. Eduardo Castillo in Mexico City and Efrain Klerigan in Victoria, Tamaulipas, contributed to this report.

There's only one "fuckwit" here, and I'm afraid YOU'RE it.

Quote from Wikipedia:

In October 2005, Libby was indicted by a federal grand jury concerning the investigation of the leak of the covert identity of Central Intelligence Agency officer Valerie Plame Wilson.[3][4][5] Plame's relationship with the CIA was formerly classified information.[3] Libby was indicted on five counts relating to the Plame affair: Two counts of perjury, two counts of making false statements to federal investigators, and one count of obstruction of justice. Libby resigned all three government positions immediately after the indictment was announced.[6]

In the subsequent federal trial, United States v. Libby, the jury convicted Libby on four of the five counts in the indictment (one count of obstruction of justice, two counts of perjury, and one count of making false statements) and acquitted on the second count of making false statements.[7][8]

in a Seattle Times article).

After a half an hour of searching, I still haven't found a good picture, just a lot of local radio people discussing it on various fora. Perhaps some combination of the search terms "KXA", "Rhodes Department Store", "Roof", "Seattle", etc. might find something.

It was a folded dipole, running East/West about 30-50 feet above the roof with self supporting truss towers supporting each end. It was a short block in length. (I think that's still less than a half wave).
As I remember, the feed was balanced open wire. Most of the surrounding buildings were shorter, but you could clearly see it from the taller ones further up the hill.

Nice signal with intermittent RFI. Good coverage of North Korean leader's death... Chinese intelligence upset they didn't know of the death until a few days after it happened...Russia has sent the same team of experts who preserve Lenin to North Korea to embalm Kim Jong Il.

Nice news summary, I'll have to listen to Radio Japan more often. Not so much after the news ends - sounds like they segue into fluff pieces and language lessons.

A bald faced lie. The citizenry of the DPRK enjoy a comfortable lifestyle with an abundance of healthy food stuff - fish and rice being staples. How laughable that this particular slander originates from the junk food capital of the world - the fat-assed and unhealthy USA. Oh the irony is absolutely unbearable!

Supply of Fishes to Pyongyang Citizens Begins

Pyongyang, December 23 (KCNA) -- The supply of fishes to Pyongyang citizens began Thursday at this sad time of national mourning.
Leader Kim Jong Il worked heart and soul to supply the people with fresh fishes the year round while giving tireless field guidance to fisheries bases on the eastern and western areas, commercial service centers and related units during his lifetime.

Earlier this year he made sure that pollacks and herrings were supplied to the Pyongyang citizens. At sandfish season this November he instructed officials to swiftly catch sandfish and send them to the people.
On the evening of Dec. 16, just a day before his demise, he took a step for the fish supply.

Kim Jong Un, vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission of Workers' Party of Korea, made sure that special transport measures were taken and let officials in Pyongyang and local areas take charge of the supply in the field, saying the loving care of Kim Jong Il should reach the people as soon as possible even though it is a mourning period.

Officials and commercial service workers are now making sure that those fishes are supplied to every household in the city.
Salespersons and citizens burst out sobbing at fish shops in the capital city Friday.

Officials in the commercial service field in the city pledged their loyalty for Kim Jong Un, saying the history of loving care for the people continues and no people on earth are blessed with leaders and generals as the Koreans.

The "pipes" are actually at alternate ends, but for some reason Windows deletes the spaces that precede the right-hand side pipes.

Half a centry you say?

It went into effect July the 4th,1826 with the signing of the Declaration of Independence

Thomas Jefferson threw a kink in the program for the first time,by setting up the gold standard,to later be taken over at the secret meeting on Jekyll Island,in 1935.

Another attempt to cut them off by JFK,that got him killed,when he authorized no interest notes.

Famous Presidential quotes:

"If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issuance of their currency, first by inflation and then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all their property until their children will wake up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered."

Are you on drugs? Your statement has nothing to do with the lie that Scooter Libby outed Valerie Plame.

But your idiotic response further illustrates how pointless you are.

And if you are one of the mere mortals, than yes.

Which, again, is not a refutation of the facts, that Scooter Libby did not out Plame.

But do keep prattling it is amusing watching you repeat the lie as if it were the truth. It does so much for your credibility.

Do you think because the royal prosecutor got an indictment and a conviction, which the media hoped to use to turn Libby against Bush or Cheney, which was symptomatic of the mad fixation on Bush, which is all the more disgusting because they hurt an innocent man in thier mad quest to hurt Bush and Cheney, do you really think it makes it a fact?

And oh yeah, Plame wasn't an agent, she was never going to be deployed aghain because her cover was already blown and she used her position to get her husband a government contract, in which he filed false reports for political reasons.

I am not a fan of Bush, but I am a fan of the truth. Your stench is as foul as the Democrats.

How would you like to be a Fox employee, required to tell your boss's

I'm assuming that everybody who works for Fox doesn't believe Fox's lies. That is based upon seeing people work for bosses in private industry without agreeing with them. But, it is an assumption.

Some sites such as http://mediamatters.org/ that list Fox's lies are of a liberal bent, so I expect you to disregard them. Note that it has a category for Fox news.

Others appear to be equal opportunity fact checkers such as http://www.factcheck.org/. It has a search engine where you can enter "fox news" or "NPR" or "NBC". As I said, everyone lies, and this site will find lies from all of the network. But it doesn't take long to find which have the biggest whoppers.

Take your time. This unbiased source does a better job than anything I could do.

Or Google "Fox News Lies". Go to the video page, and you will find most of the links have actual Fox news video. Admittedly, such a Google doesn't filter out articles from the left.

Take your time. Going to the source works better than trusting anybody on this forum.

I have seen factcheck and Politifact. In essence they are both honest but they only look up what they are asked about. If no one asks about something on CBS, for example, neither one of them will research it.

Found a lot of them on politifact.com and factcheck.org but the majority of them are folks like Gingrich, Howard Dean, etc.. making comments while on Fox. I didn't see that many from the Fox newscasters themselves but did see quite a few from the pundits like O'Reilly, Hannity, Rachel Maddow, Keith Olbermann, etc..

6033. In Memory of The Great Leader Comrade Kim Jong IL 1942-2011

Newsgroup: rec.radio.shortwave

I was deeply shocked by the news of the passing away of the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il , general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea, chairman of the National Defence Commission of the DPRK and supreme commander of the Korean People's Army. It was literally a bolt from the blue which no one expected , even the enemies of the DPRK admitted they did not expect it and were unaware of it until the DPRK announced it to the world. On the morning of December 19th I recieved a cellphone text message from a good friend which said " Very sad news.Condolences to All". I was puzzled , who could have died ?I thought . I found a radio on and switched it to Radio 4 suddenly I heard them say "death of Kim Jong Il " , what this is impossible ! , this can't be true ? I remembered that only recently the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il gave guidance to the new Kwangbok supermarket. It seemed impossible that he could die. I struggled to switch my computer on(it is quite antiquated or so I am told by the younger generation) , finally it came on and I went on to the KCNA website. There was the official annoucement with a portrait of a smiling great leader comrade Kim Jong Il. Juche idea and Songun idea followers had been preparing earnestly to mark the 20th anniversary of the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il's accession to the position of supreme commander of the KPA. (and also the 100th anniversary of the birth of the great leader comrade Kim Il Sung in April 2012 and the 80th anniversary of the foundation of the Korean People's Army also in April) Why had he passed away so near the anniversary ? It reminded me darkly of when my own father died when I was 11 on the 13th of December 1972 only 12 days before Christmas (celebrated as a great festival in the West) , the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il passed away on the 17th of December only a week before Christmas. When my father died I could not understand why it had happened and indeed now the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il father of the Juche idea and Songun idea followers of the world passed on I cannot understand why.

I recalled my visit to the DPRK in April 2002 when I attended a rally at the People's Palace of Culture to mark the 90th anniversary of the birth of the great leader comrade Kim Il Sung. I was with a Korean lady who was my guide for the visit. We were waiting for the meeting to start. Suddenly , a striking figure in light green strode on the stage at a very brisk pace . He looked strong , with a straight back . He not only walked briskly but with purpose ,determination and control. "leader Kim Jong il " shouted my guide sounding much younger than she was . The great leader comrade Kim Jong Il was 60 years old at the time but looked like he was in his 40s. Those present burst into spontaneous and rapturous applause which lasted for over five minutes . I had never witnessed anything like it before in my life.

The people of the DPRK and many people in south Korea had a deep love and reverence for the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il , indeed this goes beyond the boundaries of Korea , it is shared by all Juche idea followers and friends of Korea throughout the world. These feelings are due to the qualities of the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il as a leader, as a theorist , as a teacher and as a man.

Comrade Kim Jong Il was born the son of guerrillas on snowswept Mt Paektu in a humble log cabin .At an early age he distinguished himself as a student and thinker . He pledged to glorify Korea on Mt Ryongnam during his university days. Indeed he has glorified Korea . He built Korea up as a mighty socialist military power which terrified the US and other imperialists . Juche Korea now has its own independent nuclear deterrent and has long range missiles which can strike the US mainland . The Korean People's Army is united steel-strong on the basis of Songun , its soldiers are a match for a hundred Yankee soldiers as taught by the great leader President Kim Il Sung The KPA struck back hard at the south Korean puppets when they foolishly provoked the Yongphyong incident in November 2010. I am convinced that if the US and south Korean puppets provoked a war the KPA could not only honourably defend the DPRK but could also liberate south Korea and reunify the country. The overseas Korean writer M C Kim wrote about this his best selling book "Kim Jong Il Day of Having Korea Reunified". The strength of the KPA was down to the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il's Songun revolutionary leadership that began on the 25th of August 1960 at the Guard Ryu Kyong Su no 105 tank division of the Korean People's Army.

The great leader comrade Kim Jong Il was a humble follower of the great leader comrade Kim Il Sung , he ensured that his ideology , the Juche idea , prevailed throughout the WPK and the whole society . When modern revisionism raised its ugly head in the early 60s comrade Kim Jong Il wrote voluminous works exposing it Later he systematised and enriched the Juche idea , the guiding idea for human liberation , particularly in his work "ON THE JUCHE IDEA ". The Juche idea gripped the minds of the world's people.aspiring for independence. Later Juche came to be both supplemented and enhanced by the Songun idea and Songun politics which the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il elaborated.

When socialism was frustrated in many countries and the international communist movement was at a loss as to which forward the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il wrote works such as " Abuses of Socialism is Intolerable" "Socialism Is A Science " and " Giving Priority to Ideological Work Is Essential for Accomplishing Socialism ". which showed the way forward for socialism . Also the work " On Preserving the Juche and National Character in the Revolution and Construction " was a brilliant manifesto against imperialist globalisation and cosmopolitan imperialist globalisation and cosmopolitanism . Leader comrade Kim Jong Il built up Juche-orientated socialism a true model of socialism , a real alternative to the madness of capitalism , a country which shows that a different world is possible.

Let us just reflect on one or two things . The imperialists and their paid propagandaists even now during this moment of grief and mourning find fault with the DPRK and its socialist system . However it is not the DPRK that has a crazy system , it is the capitalist world where billions is spent on advertising useless products , where billions are spent on propping up banks, where 70,000 children are homeless at Christmas but a million homes are empty and where drugs are taken openly on the streets is seen as normal.

The great leader comrade Kim Jong Il strove so hard to build a better world for both the Korean people and by creating an example of authentic living socialism a better world for all people of the world . He believed in making a flower bloom on a rock if it was for the good of the people’s living standards. He passed away while not at rest but whilst on a trip to give guidance to the economy and people’s living standards. Many people in his position would have retired and seeked an easy life but not the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il he kept going , working every day for the people. He was a true people’s leader. We remember the great leader comrade Kim Jong Il for this. Let us Juche idea followers unite around his successor General Kim Jong Un and turn sorrow into strength. !

GLORY TO THE ETERNAL MEMORY OF THE GREAT LEADER COMRADE KIM JONG IL LONG LIVE GENERAL KIM JONG UN !
LONG LIVE JUCHE!
LONG LIVE SONGUN!.

By international standards, DPRK citizens enjoy a very high standard of living. In Socialist Korea, the state guarantees all citizens the right to quality healthcare, education, stipends for the disabled, retirement pensions and access to recreational facilities, as well as a wide array of other state-supported services. Indeed, DPRK citizens are guaranteed many provisions that are uncommon in many developed capitalist societies, which are home to real poverty. Unlike in many countries of the capitalist world, the DPRK is a state free of homelessness, unemployment, prostitution and starvation.

That's interesting. I wonder how well it got out, especially considering the horizontal polarization which would mean it would primarily radiate a direct wave and sky wave, and not much of a ground wave. Very odd!

Secrets of the American Nomenklatura

With the rise of independent media, the secrets of the American
nomenklatura are coming into clearer focus, the shameless exploitation of the good will and treasure of the people increasingly put on view for all to see.

1. The media and the Democrats are joined at the hip and have created a "hereditary celebrity class"

One of the fastest ways to celebrity and fortune (besides perhaps going on Dancing with the Stars, being adopted into the Hilton or Kardashian families and making a porn video) is to be the child of a politician or a well connected political operative.

2. The political class views the taxpayers as cash cows to be milked for their own benefit and the benefit of their friends , children and contributors

Just days after Mead's plaint, we learned that the Department of Energy blew even more money on a Robert Kennedy Jr. project, than it did on the already well-known Solyndra fiasco.

3. The Supreme Court action on the three ObamaCare Cases it granted certiori on this week might well encapsulate the principle that we citizens are, in fact cash cows there for the federal government to milk.

James DeLong in a brilliant article explains this development.

The king has always made the rules. And the king defines treason as the most important crime - while he betrays his people for his own benefit.

If the state worked for the people, there would be no secrets except for those needed in a legal war.

KFBK on 1530 kHz was running HD Buzz at least until 2 AM last night; and KFI on 640 kHz seems to be running the HD Buzz all night long : As heard here in Twain

KGO-AM 810 kHz seems to have a better night-time signal overnight with no HD

It's ALL a puzzle isn't it?
Like a game of CHESS perhaps.

The pieces move apparently-aimlessly but always toward one single objective; to kill the King.

And who is the King in this game?
That is the question you MUST ask yourself.

Ahhhhh, the eternal refain of Humanity, pleading ignorance, begging for mercy,
please, please help me, I don't understand.

You are your own King, and this is the Hell you have created for yourself.

I own a lot of radios. The RP2100 is one of the best. Best portable for mediumwave reception. SW reception is good, but I'd buy the external BFO for SSB reception.

I use it mainly for AM, and I like it.

I've tried the shortwave,

Why are you using a radio designed in Japan and built in China?

I thought the North Koreans would build something superior?

2300-2400 Am Voice of Russia 7250, 7290

Strong signal on both frequencies. Male and female discussing US nuclear weapons arsenal and Russia's capability for a second strike if necessary. Very interesting, brings back memories of the good old days of the cold war. Obviously Russia, along with the rest of the world, is fed up with America's war mongering and hubris.

?Well, if you want to have this legal conversation, it all has to do with your state of mind and whether or not you had the requisite intent to come up with something that would be considered perjury or a lie. The information that was provided by the February 4th letter was gleaned by the people who drafted the letter after they interacted with people who they thought were in the best position to have the information.?

I got out my North Korean flag pin, and proudly wore it for my moment of silence.

The pin was sent to me back in 1992 along with a QSL from Radio Pyongyang.

What a genuinely moving gesture of respect. And what a wonderful example for humanity. A decorated U.S. Navy hero putting aside ideological differences to honor and pay homage to a fallen foe. Poet warriors in the classic sense, each of them. And the donning of the North Korean flag pin, my God the genius of that. My God, the nobility of it all! Thank you for sharing your private moment.

George HW Bush Pukes in Japan, he had vomited and then slid to the floor, thrown up at his seat just before collapsing, rolled his head to the left, and was clearly fainting before being helped to the floor, actual moment of puke was only shown once on US television, Bush recovering from having emptied his stomach contents, the president experienced sudden, violent gastric distress, vomited - as the

Jim Chenard reports that he's finishing arrangements for WKQV 1540 (Georgia) for a test Friday night December 30 (That's early Saturday morning) at 0200. I am presuming EST (Georgia time) unless Jim lets us know otherwise. They're really hoping to make it to the west coast. Details to follow.

Please pass this message to people / lists / sites where the news would be welcome.
Thanks, Jim!

For better or for worse, Ron Paul is more honest than all of the other candidates. But I don't see any evidence that Obama is more of a crook than any of those other candidates. They all get rich doing the bidding of their bosses.

George HW Bush Pukes in Japan, he had vomited and then slid to the floor, thrown up at his seat just before collapsing, rolled his head to the left, and was clearly fainting before being helped to the floor, actual moment of puke was only shown once on US television, Bush recovering from having emptied his stomach contents, the president experienced sudden, violent gastric distress, vomited - as the

6109. grundig & eton satelit 700

Can someone explain the differences between these two?

Was the Grundig version made when Eton aquired Grundig, just still badged Grundig?

I've read a couple of informative reviews on the Eton, I think it mentioned maybe the way stations locked in or something about separation?

On Ebay and maybe JR's it seems the Grundig is about $100.00 more. The Eton sells for around $260. Is the build quality that different? I have read that the size of the Eton can be attributed to the Vintage look, that it didn't really need to be the size that it is. Is the Grundig model heavier or comparable build quality?

Any answers to this are welcome and appreciated, thank you.

Best regards

Did you actually hear the station ID as such or are you relying on a perhaps outdated schedule on the internet? Not saying you are wrong, just saying that I definitely heard mention of Radio China International. As the broadcast was in Spanish I can't be certain of the context. I tried to pick the station up tonight to no avail but will keep trying.

The last real Grundig Satellit 700 was made in Portugal from around 1992 to 1995 . The current model 'Grundig' 750 aka as Eton is actually a Tecsun HAM-2000 from PRC .

There are some trivial functionality differences between the Tecsun and Eton/Grundig models.

But performance difference between the two are within the tolerances of production/QC.

Dear Comrade,

CRI doesn't broadcast on 5950. RTI does (in Spanish!) at the time you mentioned. It's not impossible that RTI was mentioning some news item heard on CRI.
BTW, the risk of outdated schedules is unlikely. Schedules are now updated daily and available for free download. Where have you been hiding?
Pyongyang?

Another nut job with a pathological hate for the entire Bush family.

And BTW, not really helping Ron Paul by acting like an asshole. Might be brtter off if you factuhally countered the assertions.

Liberty Net: December 24, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/12/liberty-net-december-24-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

WE BEGIN the New Year with the test of a new ad-free audio feed and chat room which will be live during the next Liberty Net ï¿½ please check it out at:

http://3950.net/live/

Before the net begins, and after the net is over, weï¿½ll be sending Liberty Net recordings and other tests on the audio feed, so feel free to try out the new page and learn how to use it.

Hereï¿½s a tiny selection of some of the ideas brought up during this weekï¿½s Liberty Net discussion:

ï¿½ Why has there been a huge explosion of the population of disease-bearing ticks in northern New England? The epidemic is spreading Lyme Disease in humans and is causing a mass die-off of moose, some of which are literally carrying more than 100,000 ticks each, which essentially immobilizes them before they die. (21 minutes)

ï¿½ Now that Ron Paulï¿½s frontrunner status has become too obvious to ignore, the banker-owned media have brought out their dirty tricks to smear him. Their current tactic is to make him appear ï¿½racistï¿½ or ï¿½extremistï¿½ because he has occasionally told the truth about freedom of association and other ï¿½radicalï¿½ things. (38 minutes)

ï¿½ Itï¿½s time to do once again what Andrew Jackson did in the nineteenth century: Kill the central bank ï¿½ today, the Fed ï¿½ and its fractional reserve system that is literally killing and enslaving us all. (47 minutes)

ï¿½ Why are we seeing all the ï¿½hate Putinï¿½ and ï¿½hate Russiaï¿½ propaganda on the controlled media these days? Why are Soros and his ilk funding the anti-Putin rallies that are getting so much media play? Simple: 1) Putin kicked out the bankers and oligarchs, and even jailed some of the most egregious of them, and 2) Putin has spearheaded efforts to increase the White birthrate in Russia. (51 minutes)

ï¿½ How would life be different in this country if the seven million jobs and almost 5,000 factories had not been exported to the Third World? (1 hour 18 minutes)

ï¿½ Why does the regime in Washington have a hundred times more people guarding the borders of Middle Eastern countries than they have guarding our own borders? (1 hour 40 minutes)

ï¿½ The severe social problems that predominate in Black-majority areas of the US was pointed up recently when Black leaders themselves called for National Guard intervention to deal with out-of-control crime in New Orleans. (2 hours 35 minutes)

ï¿½ Fox News is a propaganda operation far greater in scope and effect than any in George Orwellï¿½s worst nightmares. In attempting to destroy and demonize Ron Paul, they are showing their true colors ï¿½ and are in lockstep with CNN and MSNBC. (3 hours 38 minutes)

ï¿½ Why does so much of Appleï¿½s software advertising in their stores pointedly exclude White people as models? Why is this, in some circles, considered somehow ï¿½goodï¿½? (4 hours)

ï¿½ The torrent of incompetence that ï¿½Affirmative Actionï¿½ has brought to America has its bright side: The evil men who brought such oppression to our country will become less and less able to impose their will on us as the incompetence increases. (4 hours 5 minutes)

Remember that you can receive the Liberty Net in the area of 3950 kHz and above (lately, often on or near 3980 kHz or 3964 kHz) every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time ï¿½ or listen live on the Internet (try the audio feed we are testing at http://3950.net/live/). And you can listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. Each Saturday nightï¿½s mp3 file is usually posted on the next morning ï¿½ Sunday ï¿½ and will be visible that day in the upper right column of this site.

Once again, thanks to W1WCR for running this important and historic discussion net ï¿½ now approaching its 38th anniversary ï¿½ and thanks also to N2IRJ for making these recordings available.

Perhaps he meant a 1/2 wavelength antenna? I have grown to appreciate and have the greatest results with them, from 11m to 40m ... I simply load a wire to 1/2 wave for 80m and 160m as I no longer have the space for the length required at those freqs ... same with MW ... and of course, a 1/2 wave at LW freqs is simply laughable -- other than a heavily loaded wire ...

I mean, a half wave a 6080Mc is a long wire in my book ...

Perhaps one is suitable for a given SW listener, this page might provide some info?:

The fact that they all go in of just average wealth or so, and come out with bulging pockets? The fact that they are all allowed to engage in insider trading without the required prison times for doing so? The fact that bribes to them are disguised in payments to them for "consulting services", "speaking" to colleges and other groups, etc.

Only a fool who pose an argument to them not being crooks, but there is nothing wrong with being noted as a fool -- saves others a waste of time

Yeah, I voted for bush sr. when he said, read my lips, no new taxes -- just before he gave us all those new taxes ... a website which is just a gauge of if they are telling the right lies or not is of no use what-so-ever ...

Ron Paul has the track record, he has voted what he preaches ... and, most importantly, above all else, he is the only one saying he will audit and abolish the federal reserve -- a private bank and debt system which is enslaving American citizens, robbing their wealth, and taking them towards 3rd world status ...

RON PAUL IN 2012, there simply isn't a second choice ...

Not an answer to my question. In fact your response suggests that the system is simply internally corrupt and Congress is abusing it's power, in an institutional way.

Sorry, thought you might have the gray matter to deduce the answer ... the people allowing them to do insider trading as payoffs, the people paying the bribes to them -- probably though their agents -- in the form of payments for speaking engagements and such, etc. -- there you will find their bosses -- or simply, banksters, wall street, rich-elite, corporate America -- essentially, the rich and powerful crooks who have usurped the rightful government of the people, by the people and for the people ... I mean, it is like, DUH!

How does that have anything, what-so-ever, with them recognizing a war criminal, and willing to met out proper legal and criminal actions, and see appropriate sentences imposed on the criminal in question -- bush?

Obfuscation simply makes bush no less of a war criminal ...

OK, I finally heard 1520 (K)KXA early this morning. My guess is that it must be 25-30 miles to the North, but it was down in the mud and KFBK 1530 Sacramento and KGA 1510 Spokane were louder. KFBK's HD sidebands were there, but not as audible as I remember from a few years ago.

That was on my Grundig FR-200. Nothing on my R-1000.

Gee, it helps if I have something hooked up to my Kenwood's Medium Wave antenna input. The thing is damn deaf on Medium Wave but it shouldn't have been that bad. (I live about 5 miles from KOMO-1000, and most of the other high power stations on Vashon/Maury Island, (710, 880, 1090*, 570) so it's a "don't bother unless you like intermod" situation most of the time).

*(No Wolfman Jack in my neighborhood).

Hooking up the random wire, 1520 is still not a very clear or strong signal, S6. KRKO-1380 (co-located?) is S7 and a pretty good signal. KOMO is S9+35 dB, (which I think is maxed out).

I believe you now, Roy. I wasn't sure. ;-)

This seems to be quite typical of many right wingers today. If the Repub candidate (or incumbent) is not mad-dog radical, you tar them with the "RINO" brush.

Even for Republicans, what don't you understand about the word "moderate"? In your book, can they even be moderate without being a RINO?

Maybe that's simple. But are you implying that institutional corruption does less harm than non-institutional corruption?

He was #2 in my match game. We have an opportunity to look at the world and see how good austerity works for countries such as Ireland or Greece. The past record of austerity is not very good, while there have been some successes in Keynesian spending. On the other hand, the past record of getting out of the large military business has had excellent economic results.

Austerity works for some countries. Austerity is a reaction to massive debt and uncontrolled spending. The solution is to tell the people that can't have everything they want.
